$10,000 CASH OFFER BY CITY HALL IS BARED

Tendered Candidate to "Go Along."

This is the third of a series of articles detailing attempts of the Landin-Thompson-Small machine to grab control of the next legislature. One more article dealing with Cook county districts and three articles dealing with district sections will follow.

BY E. O. PHILLIPS AND PARKE BROWN.

Herewith is the proposition put up by a representative Republican by the city hall organization to become a candidate for state senator in the April 11 primaries, if he would agree to "go along" with the Small-Lundin-Thompson program in the next legislature: 1. Ten thousand dollars in cash to be paid upon his own nomination and election. 2. A job of $7,000 or better in one of the city hall departments, effective immediately. 3. An expense account for the primary campaign that had no particular limit. The proposition was made and came close to an acceptance. It was turned down and another individual was named in his stead and is now opposed to a Chicago state senator who is a candidate for renomination and bitterly opposed by the city hall.

Spending $25,000 in District.

Conservative estimates last night had it that at least $25,000 is being spent in the single senatorial district to defeat the sitting senator. The senator, however, received a direct proposal that no city hall candidate would be entered against him if he would agree to "go along" at Springfield in the next session. The proposal was refused.

With the primaries set for two weeks from today, the west side territory showed this approximate condition:

SECOND DISTRICT.

Only one Republican is to be nominated, and the city hall plants all that it has behind Representative Peter S. Krump. The Galpin organization in the Eighteenth ward and the Crowe organization in other wards that are party in the district are fighting for Peter J. Marcy, a former representative.

The Democratic fight is complicated with nine candidates for the two nominations. Representative Frank Ryan is at the head of the ballot. He led the fight in the house to defeat the "head of trade bills" that would have passed the Chicago board.

Harry C. Van Norman is the candidate of the Tuohy organization in the Eighteenth ward. Louis Drucker is backed by the regulars in the Tenth and Twelfth wards. Harry McGee has the regular backing in the Twelfth ward, and the Grogan organization in the Eighteenth is with Arthur W. Wallace. So it is anybody's fight.

FIFTEENTH DISTRICT.

In this district Senator John J. Ryan, Democrat, has no primary opponent, and there is no Republican candidate. For the house Representative Thomas Curran has no opponent for the single Republican house nomination. The Democratic organization will renominate Representatives Peter F. Smith and Joseph Perina.

SIXTEENTH DISTRICT.

Senator Edward J. Glackin is a candidate for the Democratic renomination and is getting every ounce of support that the city hall Republicans can throw to him. He has been secretary of the four terms in the senate, and while he gets by with an apparently fair voting record at Springfield, he was recognized there as one of the main reliances of the Landin-Thompson-Small machine, sponsoring some of their more measures. He is opposed by the National Laborer, now member of the legislative convention.

SEVENTEENTH DISTRICT.

Representative E. J. Smelkal has a single opponent, H. J. Spangola. J. V. Watson and Thomas Frole are the Democratic "regulars."

NINETEENTH DISTRICT.

The Republican senatorial nomination lies between Frank Fountain, who will get the city hall support, and Albert B. Holacek, who is the candidate of the Deane organization in the thirty-fourth ward, led by Sol P. Rederick. For the house the Republican senatorial committee put over a resolution for a single nomination. Nine candidates have filed. Representative Charles E. Marzler, from the Thirtieth ward, went along in 1921, at Springfield, with the Small-Thompson alliance. He is now marked

BRITISH MAY ASK U. S. SET-OFF FOR OLD STATE DEBTS

$60,000,000 of Bonds Repudiated.

BY JOHN STEELE. (Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) (Copyright, 1922, By The Chicago Tribune.) LONDON, March 27.—(By Tribune Wireless.)—The British council of foreign, bondholders, a body including many leading bankers and business men and former agents ago to try to collect bad debts from foreign governments, suggested today to the British government that now would be a good time to try to collect repudiated American state debts, or at least set them off against the British debt to America.

The debts which are proposed for collection, J. P. Cooper, the secretary of the council, said, were not Confederate bonds, but debts contracted by the United States either before or after the civil war for development purposes and afterwards repudiated. The council has eliminated Confederate bonds, as they were borrowed by a rebel government and, therefore, are invalid.

Here Are Claims.

It is admitted that some southern debts were issued by carpet bag governments, but that does not alter the legal status. The following list of debts is claimed:

Arkansas	$ 5,000,000
Florida	7,000,000
Georgia	12,700,000
Louisiana	6,000,000
Mississippi	7,000,000
North Carolina	12,000,000
South Carolina	6,000,000
Total par value	$60,000,000

The Mississippi debt was contracted from 1851 to 1858 and was repudiated a few years later. The other debts are from thirty to fifty years old and it is easy to figure what the claim will amount to, if unpaid interest is included. Mr. Cooper says, however, that bondholders will be glad to get back the principal.

Only Repudiations on Record.

"These are the only cases on record of civilized governments repudiating obligations, except Mexico in the case of the Maximilian bonds and Russia recently," Mr. Cooper said. "It is not a case of being in default of interest. It is a case of definitely repudiating a debt."

Under the eleventh amendment of the United States constitution, an individual cannot sue a state and repudiating states sit down behind this law and laugh at us. Some years ago we presented some West Virginia bonds to North Dakota which sued and won hands down. Then we tried others, but found that it was not popular in America for one state to sue another. "We got Cuba to bring suit against Mississippi, but it backed out at the last moment, probably on a hint from

MAN SHOT THREE TIMES, BELIEVED VENDETTA VICTIM

Stephen Maggio, 41 years old, 1299 West Randolph street, was shot and probably fatally wounded in front of 114 North Ann street last night by two unidentified men, said to be Italians. The police believe the shooting was due to a vendetta.

Maggio was walking north in Ann street when the two men stepped from the shadow of a building and fired five shots at him. They fled down an alley as he fell. He was taken to the county hospital, where it was learned he had been shot through the forehead, through his right arm, and in his side. It is believed he will die.

PAVES WAY TO SPEEDY PEACE IN COAL STRIKE

Farrington Offers to "Confer."

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The stage is already being set in advance, it seems, for settlement of the coal strike which is to be clamped on at midnight Friday when it shows signs of grogginess. Separate state wage agreements as a medium for getting the men back to the pits after they have been out for a time, moved closer into the foreground yesterday.

FRANK FARRINGTON.

Frank Farrington, head of the Illinois union miners, sent word to the three operators' associations in the state that his executive board is ready "to confer" with the operators as stipulated in the state contract. The meeting will be held tomorrow morning at the Auditorium hotel. Neither side expects it will lead to any negotiation of a wage contract at this time. Mr. Farrington explicitly used the word "confer" instead of "negotiate," and the Illinois miners, some 50,000 strong, will walk out with the rest.

Move for Peace Seen.

But the conference is expected to serve as an "opener," and, as the trade experts view it, the situation on the eve of the strike is such that the United Mine Workers will eventually accept the single state contract idea, which was first advanced by the Illinois operators, as perhaps "the way out."

At the Cleveland meeting last week the policy committee of the miners went on record again as against separate state agreements. At the time Mr. Farrington gave notice that he would "confer" with the state operators as required by the state contract, but said this did not necessarily mean negotiation of a separate wage settlement, which the international union has forbidden.

Action Is No Surprise.

So there was no surprise yesterday when he came to bat with his note. The meeting will give an opportunity for both sides to lay their cards on the table, something which has been so far denied by the refusal of the Pittsburgh field operators to enter a four-state conference, as provided by the agreement signed two years ago. It will give better opportunity for the underlying issues to be aired before the public.

Whether the Illinois operators will present their counter proposals is somewhat conjectural. But at any rate, the idea current for weeks has been that they will insist on a reduction of coal mine wages, to say the level of 1919. The wage cut comes first and foremost. As affairs stand, the operators point out that the best Illinois coal today cannot compete in the Chicago market with Pocahontas, although the freight rate from West Virginia is $1.41 a ton higher than from southern Illinois. The reason pointed out is that the wage scale in Illinois is on a basis of $7.50 a day for common labor, while in the nonunion Pocahontas field it is from $3.25 to $4.50.

Not Against "Checkoff."

Regarding the checkoff by which union dues and assessments are collected out of the pay envelopes of the men, Illinois operators are not so strongly against it as are mine owners in other sections. In fact, a great many of them are for it—with some limitations. They say it results in giving them a more stable labor supply. Before the checkoff, they say, many men neglected to pay their union dues. Thus they were unable to hold a card, and without the card they could not hold a job.

Thus much time in the mines was lost while delinquent dues were being collected. The checkoff obviated this, but what the operators do complain of is the fact that through this device the office machinery has been forced to collect certain assessments that were used in fighting operators in other states and incidentally themselves. What many of them want in Illinois is a checkoff with restrictions.

The thirty hour week proposal is not making anybody lose any sleep, for nobody takes it seriously, save for purposes of argumentation. It was there two years ago, and was recognized by union leaders as weakening their position.

WIRTH DECLARES GERMANY CANNOT MEET DEMANDS

BERLIN, March 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—Chancellor Wirth today told the premiers of the federated states and reichstag leaders representing the Majority Socialists, Democrats, Clericals, and the German People's party that the German government would inform the allied reparations commission that the 60,000,000,000 marks tax levy was not feasible and that financial control of Germany, as stipulated in its note of last week, also must be declined.

The chancellor added that the government was now confident of the reichstag's approval of its stand. The premiers and the reichstag leaders had assembled today to hear the chancellor's explanation of the government's attitude on the reparations commission's decision.

N. Y. INNKEEPERS TO GO TO JAIL IF WOMEN SMOKE

New York, March 27.—Police Commissioner Enright tonight issued orders for members of the police department to arrest any proprietor or manager of a hotel, cabaret or other place of public entertainment who permits women to smoke publicly in their establishments.

The commissioner's order was issued pursuant to the text of an ordinance adopted recently by the board of aldermen and signed last week by Mayor Hylan. Fines and jail terms are provided for any proprietor who permits smoking.

Groups of detectives and policemen immediately started on tours of amusement places where blue halos of cigarette smoke had been curling around the heads of women smokers since early evening. They passed the news along and its announcement brought boos and groans. The skeptical were notified individually by policemen, and they joined the others in dropping their fags underfoot.

A Long, Sad Farewell.

"Good-bye, sweet dreams," sighed one bob-haired young woman, as she blew a smoke ring into the face of a detective and flipped her cigarette over his shoulder. "What joy-killer is responsible for this?"

In the luxuriously furnished women's smoking room of a theater on Broadway, the announcer of the record received what the fappers call "the raspberry." The loungers blew smoke in his face, gave him three rounds of sarcastic ha-ha's, and chased him. He brought back a policeman and the manager and the women were convinced.

Everywhere the announcement raised a storm of indignation. The cry of "author, author—whose the author of this blue law?" was raised—and went unanswered.

Money for the Lawyers.

Proprietors and managers of women's exclusive smoking rooms, newly opened in fashionable, ultra-fashionable, and unfashionable sections of the city intimated that they would carry their fight to the highest state courts.

Sonia, the "cigarette girl" of Greenwich Village, curled her lips scornfully when she heard the news.

"Piffle!" she exclaimed; "might as well try to stop us from using rouge—it's a habit."

Ald. Peter J. McGuinness was identified later as the author of the ordinance. He admitted it. He declared, however, that he was absent from the board meeting the day it was passed and didn't know one solitary thing about it until informed tonight.

SEIZE $17,000 IN GEMS, $500, AND LIQUORS

Family and Servants Held by Guns.

A millionaire's home in Downers Grove was entered and ransacked by a band of nine masked men, a colored policeman shot and killed a colored bandit caught in the act of robbing a victim, a north side housewife captured a burglar in her home, a tenant of a loop skyscraper was victimized in broad daylight by a highwayman, and several alleged burglars were arrested yesterday.

Nine armed and masked men riding in two automobiles last night invaded the farm mansion of Arthur W. Cutten, multi-millionaire wheat speculator, near Downers Grove, held up Mr. Cutten, his wife, his brother, Harry Cutten, and three servants, and escaped with $500 in cash, $17,000 in jewelry, and nine cases of whisky.

They were pursued from the Cutten farm by a butler and two chauffeurs with a shotgun. The robbers had stolen a silver truck used on the farm in which to transport the liquor. This truck was riddled with pucks by the butler, but the bandits and the booze escaped.

Late last night police were still watching all principal roads leading into Chicago in the hope of intercepting the wanted men.

Robbers Interrupt Early Dinner.

The robbers' "fare" roared up to the Cutten house shortly after 9 o'clock. John Johnson, butler, was in the yard near the garage. The cars stopped before him.

"Can you give us a little gas?" one of the robbers asked him.

Johnson obligingly started for the gas tank, but was halted with a gun. "How many people are in the house?" What are they doing? Are they eating dinner or where are they? Make a squawk now, and I'll shoot," one of the thieves said.

Johnson led the attacking party to the side of the house where the Cutten family could be seen at dinner. Then they walked up to the front door. A maid answered the doorbell. She gazed once and subsided when she saw the guns.

Line Family Against Wall.

The bandits pushed into the dining room. There they lined the Cutten family and the servants against the wall.

Part of the gang ransacked the house. One bandit stripped Mrs. Cutten of a necklace valued at between $5,000 and $10,000 and a diamond ring valued at $7,000.

The eggs then bundled up the silverware in a tablecloth and forced the whole party to walk down to the cellar. There Mr. Cutten opened the liquor vault, containing 100 cases of whisky—pre-war goods.

Nine of these were loaded into a butter and egg truck found in the garage. Then the Cutten family and the servants were locked into the spacious liquor vault and the robbers fled.

Butler Leads Pursuit.

A few moments later Butler Johnson succeeded in unlocking the door. And then he grabbed a bathrobe in lieu of an overcoat, and rushed out. Two other employees, Mort Hillis and Max Durham, had just arrived. Quickly explaining the circumstances, Johnson took Hillis and Durham in the Dodge roadster which the two employees had been using, and the three started in pursuit.

About seven miles from the Cutten home they came upon the Ford truck. The men were in it, but the liquor wasn't there. Johnson opened fire with his shotgun. He riddled the truck with bullets. The two robbers deserted it and fled into a cornfield. They made their escape.

A reward of $1,000 was offered last night by Mr. Cutten for the perpetrators of the affair.

COP KILLS BANDIT

In the act of robbing a grocery at 3161 South Wabash avenue, a revolver trained on his two victims, a colored bandit was killed last night by Policeman Raymond Green of the Stanton avenue station. That Green himself was not killed is ascribed to the circumstance that the bandit's revolver failed to discharge.

The bandit entered the store from the rear about 7:30. Mrs. Jacob Polack, wife of the proprietor, was weighing some potatoes. He ordered her to raise her hands and whispered that "if you scream I'll kill you."

Then he backed her into the front part of the store. A customer had just left and Mr. Pollack was at the cash register. The bandit had him raise his hands and face the wall with Mrs. Pollack. Warning them not to move he went to the cash register. It was then that Policeman Green, walking along the opposite side of the street, saw him. Drawing his revolver, he ran over. As he entered the front door, the bandit, whose back was to him, suddenly turned, aimed his revolver at Green, and pressed the trigger. He pressed it repeatedly, but there was no discharge. Green opened fire. He put three bullets within a circle no larger than a dollar about the bandit's heart. The bandit died without making a statement. The body was removed to a south side undertaking establishment. Green, a colored man, earned a commendation from Chief Fitzmorris a week ago when he captured John Weedy, who murdered Anthony Nelms, a night watchman, in a holdup a few weeks ago.

WOMAN NABS THIEF

Mrs. Edna McKenzie, 2338 Wilson avenue, captured a burglar in the building yesterday and when he eluded her she armed herself with her husband's revolver and chased him down the street. She ran him down at Lawrence and Artesian avenues. He gave the name of Norman Hoy and his address, 1739 Leland avenue, where he is unknown.

Mrs. George Burton, living on the second floor of the apartment building, was in her home when a key turned in the door. She immediately gave the alarm. Mrs. McKenzie heard her and rushed out with the gun in her hand.

Through a ruse the burglar escaped her and ran out into the street. She pursued him. He was locked up on charges of attempted burglary.

HOLDUP IN LOOP

Bandits yesterday in broad daylight invaded the Adams Express building at 115 South Dearborn street, held up Ernest W. Berg, manager of the Ray Sample clothing company, and escaped with eight suits of clothes.

The robbers entered the store shortly before 8 o'clock. The manager was alone. They held him up, searched him, and took his pocket book. It contained $15.

"If that's all you've got you need it worse than we do," one of the bandits commented as he returned the purse. They then searched through the pile of clothing and carefully tried on numerous suits. Finding four suits each to fit them, they wrapped them up and went away.

Get 99; Pinched.

Raul Heller, 123 South Ashland avenue, and Victor Imman, 1841 South Wabash avenue, were arrested yesterday morning in the City Hall Square building just after they had robbed John E. Moore of $99. An alleged accomplice, W. B. Gaughan, also was held.

According to the police, Heller last night confessed that he robbed Robert Young, a jewel broker, of $2,500 in diamonds in the Morrison hotel three weeks ago.

Imman was recently arrested in what the police characterized as a "citadel of crime" at 1541 South Wabash avenue. "At that time he was released on bail. Police may be he will be booked on numerous charges of robbery today."

The home of James J. Brady, 314 North East avenue, Oak Park, was entered last evening while he and his family were away and jewelry and silverware valued at $2,500 were taken.

Two alleged robbers were captured late last night by Serg. Dragel and Sexton of the Deering street station following a revolver battle at 334 and Line streets. The men had robbed Joseph Dalback in his saloon at 3328 South Halsted street a short time before of $23 and a revolver and taken $10 and a gold watch from Joseph Rutkauskas, 3431 Lowe avenue. The police refused to make known their names.

ELEVEN SEIZED FOR INQUIRY IN JURY "FIXING"

Prisoners Held at State's Attorney's Office.

Ten men and one woman whose identity was carefully shielded by the police and the state's attorney, were arrested shortly before midnight last night and rushed to the state's attorney's office. There they were questioned in connection with the investigation being made of alleged jury "fixing" in the trial of Thomas Walsh and other labor leaders.

Nine men were arrested in the saloon of William Hoffmann, at 4741 S. Halsted street. A man and a woman were taken in the Overland hotel by policemen under the command of Lieut. William O'Connor. Instead of taking their prisoners to a police station they hurried them to the Criminal court building. There they were immediately questioned by Assistant State's Attorney McLaughlin.

Refuses to Comment.

Mr. McLaughlin positively refused to discuss the arrests or say in what connection they were made. From other sources it was learned that the men were held in connection with the investigation of labor trials.

A new special grand jury will be impaneled a week from today.

Meanwhile, tomorrow morning is expected to bring about a "showdown" as to why the former special grand jury was peremptorily discharged last Friday.

Developments in the general situation involving inquiry into the trials of the O'Donnell, Quess, and Walsh cases, in addition to the order impaneled the new grand jury, were threefold yesterday.

Seventeen members of the dismissed grand jury appeared before Chief Justice Scanlan in a body, demanding that the alleged "fixer" who was on the panel be named and the other members exonerated.

Juror Cited for Contempt.

Theodore A. Lodin, 5859 South Wabash avenue, a juror in the Quess case already three times indicted for conspiracy, perjury, and attempted bribery, was ordered by Judge Scanlan, on petition of Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raker, to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court.

The twenty judges of the Circuit court held a secret session of several hours in Judge David M. Brothers' chambers, which was attended by Chief Justice Scanlan. All stated they had agreed to make no statement to the press.

The seventeen members of the dismissed panel met in an anteroom in the Criminal Court building adjacent to Judge Scanlan's court early in the afternoon. They closed the doors and stationed a guard inside until Judge Scanlan's personal bailiff announced to them that the chief justice had arrived, and they then filed into his courtroom.

Foreman Isn't Present.

It had been stated that the members of the panel would visit State's Attorney Crowe, but apparently they changed their minds. John J. Phelan, who had been foreman of the panel, was not among the seventeen members present. Walter Worthington assumed the leadership before Judge Scanlan.

"We would like to have you take under consideration," said Worthington to the chief justice, "the report

RESTRICTION OF PAROLES URGED AS CRIME CURB

Present System Evil, Legislator Says.

Plans to amend the Illinois parole law "so that the parole board will have no authority to grant paroles to others than first offenders and not in any event to criminals convicted of robbery with a gun," was announced last night by Representative William G. Thon, chairman of the house committee on uniform laws in the legislature.

Representative Thon, who is from the Twenty-third senatorial district, spoke last night on the parole law before the Men's club of the Sixth Congregational church of Oak Park, at Cuyler avenue and Augusta street. He set forth figures relating to paroles and asserted that the "only remedy lies with the general assembly."

6,723 Crime Cases in 1921.

"In the year 1921," he said, "the total number of cases of individual persons charged with crime in Cook county and disposed of in the criminal courts was 6,723."

"Of these only 1,392 either were convicted or pleaded guilty of the charge against them, and out of the 1,392 exactly 757 were sent to penal institutions, and 635 were placed on probation. So out of 6,723 persons charged with crime only 757 actually were sent to penal institutions upon conviction."

358 Were Paroled.

"And now," Representative Thon continued, "with 757 sentenced from Cook county last year, 358 were released in 1921 from Pontiac reformatory or from the Joliet penitentiary, to be paroled to Cook county by the parole board. This means that, out of each two sentenced from Cook county one was released on parole."

"I feel that under no circumstances should a parole be granted to a person convicted of robbery with a gun. Only first offenders should be entitled to release on parole. A first offender, after he has served part of his sentence, if he has reformed will make good if given an opportunity. But the hardened and professional criminals never make good, and there is no reason why they should be entitled to release on parole."

WILLIAMSON NOT MENTIONED AT CHURCH MEETING

Colleagues Hear Him Talk in Mayor's Office.

Trustees of the Chicago Church federation failed to take action at an executive session yesterday relating to the Rev. J. H. Williamson, Mayor Thompson's $10,000 a year law enforcement commissioner. Prior to the meeting several clergymen who intended to be present said some action might be taken.

Expectation that the trustees would either endorse or condemn the clergyman-city official had been raised by recent public utterances of the Rev. John Thompson, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church. He called the church federation's silence on the activities of the Rev. Mr. Williamson cowardice.

COURT THREAT TO ATTACH BODY OF MRS. P. LYDIG

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Unless Mrs. Philip Lydig puts in an appearance voluntarily to be further cross-examined in the trial of the suit brought by Helen Elwood Stokes to recover dower rights in $6,000,000 worth of property of her husband, William Earl Dodge Stokes, steps will be taken to compel her attendance.

That was the understanding arrived at today by Supreme Court Justice Colahan and attorneys at the resumption of the trial.

Mrs. Lydig, who was Stokes' first wife, had been subpoenaed by counsel for Stokes. When today's session opened and she was absent the attorneys protested, and Samuel Untermyer, counsel for Mrs. Stokes, produced a physician's certificate stating that Mrs. Lydig was undergoing treatment.

Mrs. Lydig recently announced her engagement to the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant. She divorced Stokes in England several years ago.

TAX MONEY IS READY FOR CITY, TREASURER SAYS

County Treasurer Patrick J. Carr turned over $1,000,000 in tax collections to the city yesterday. He said City Controller Harding's assertion that $15,000,000 in tax collections is due the city was "pure bunk."

"I stand ready to turn over to the city and other taxing bodies all tax moneys as fast as they are collected, and the share of each can be ascertained," Mr. Carr said. "I have no personal interest in doing otherwise, for under the law all interest collected by the county treasurer must be turned over to the county."

BUILD SUBWAYS IN THREE YEARS, SAY ENGINEERS

Put the Cost of Plans at $34,400,000.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

An initial subway system for both surface and elevated lines, costing an estimated $34,400,000, was recommended yesterday by the five engineers of the council local transportation committee. They said this entire system could be built in three years, parts of it in one and a half and two years, and all without further increase in the taxes of the city. They further said that the plan for the surface lines is adequate to care for 80 per cent of the west side cars and 45 per cent of the north and south cars operating through the central business district, and will double the capacity of the elevated loop for rapid transit with certain suggested additional improvements.

Nor is the scheme recommended a temporary expedient. The engineers asserted that it is so planned that it may be part of a complete independent subway system, a part of the Arnold plan of 1911, the Harrison comprehensive plan of 1913, or the traction and subway plan of 1916.

Routes of Subways.
The routes of the subways, estimated cost, and results to be obtained therefrom may be briefly summarized as follows:

Washington street, from Clinton street to Grant park, using present tunnel under river. Cost, $4,500,000. Jackson boulevard, from terminal in Grant park west to Franklin street, then south and through the Van Buren street tunnel to Clinton street. Cost, $1,000,000. Into these two subways could be fed, if desirable, 80 per cent of the west side surface cars, for which they are designed.

Clark street, from 13th street to point south of Grand avenue. Estimated cost, $9,000,000. Forty-five per cent of surface cars, for which this is designed, now operating through business district from north to south could be fed into this tube if desired.

State street, from 18th street and the elevated to Division street, then west in Division street to elevated. Estimated cost, $16,000,000. Increase the track capacity of the elevated lines of 100 per cent under prescribed conditions.

All Two Track Lines.
All of these subways are to be two track. The first three are for surface lines and the last, State street, for rapid transit. The Washington street and Jackson boulevard ways are to be tubes, of the London type—one here for each track, except at stations. These subways are to be constructed by literally boring through the surface of the streets is not to be disturbed.

The other two subways are to be high level—constructed on newer New York plan of "cut and cover." The street will be ripped up for a block and dug out, then boarded over so that traffic may pass. The other two subways are to be cut and cover. The street will be ripped up for a block and dug out, then boarded over so that traffic may pass.

The State street rapid transit subway would also be of the high level construction of "cut and cover." The engineers estimate that it would take a year and a half to construct the bores in Washington street and Jackson boulevard, two years for Clark street, and three years for State street. To go to the next page please turn to page 4.

Location of Stations.
Regarding the location of the stations on the three surface lines, the engineers said:

"A station on Jackson boulevard and Washington street, with platforms extending from the west side of State street to the east side of Michigan avenue, with sidewalk entrances on State street, Wabash avenue, and Michigan boulevard. Two transfer stations, each two blocks in length, on Clark street, one on Jackson boulevard and one on Washington street, each with an extension westward to Wells street, and a through station on Clark street at Harrison street."

The plan for the rapid transit subway in State street contemplated four tracks eventually, of which two are to be built now at high level. These two tracks are to be located on one side of the street, the west side preferred by the engineers. Stations are planned for Roosevelt road, Harrison street, Jackson boulevard, Washington street, Chicago avenue, and at Division and Clark streets.

SUBWAY PROJECT

Links with Elevated.
"If the State street subway is constructed as described," reads the report, "it could be best utilized in conjunction with the present elevated system, but such most advantageous utilization would involve the construction of an extension of the elevated system in Wells street from Van Buren to Polk street, thence east on Polk street and 8th street to a connection with the South Side Elevated main line. This would involve an expenditure of about $1,200,000, should be furnished by the elevated companies, and arrangements should be made at the same time for the elimination of the grade crossings [on the elevated] at Van Buren and Wells streets."

If these recommendations are carried out the engineers predict that the track capacity of the elevated west side lines will be doubled. If the grade crossing at Lake and Wells streets on the elevated is also eliminated the capacity of the loop for all trains will be doubled.

Rules Against City.
Municipal Judge Charles F. McKinley decided against the city administration in its suit to obtain $3,500,000 from the surface lines. That sum is due the city, has been offered it, and refused. It represents 55 per cent of the net receipts of the lines. The city, after refusing to accept it, brought suit to recover it "for use of the streets." The court held the city is entitled to the money under the franchise, but not upon the grounds asked. Chester E. Cleveland said he will appeal.

The Illinois commerce commission is scheduled to resume hearing today the city administration's petition for a 5 cent fare.

FRIENDS, ALIBIS DEFEND RICKARD AGAINST GIRLS

Rex Beach, Biddle, and Wife Take Stand.

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Taking the witness stand in his own defense today, Rex Rickard made a full denial of the charges against him and gave two alibis to show he was elsewhere on at least two occasions when his girl accusers swore they were with him.

Rickard told the story of his life from the age of 10 to the present. His gambling house career in the mining camps of Nome, Alaska, and elsewhere was described and defended by Rex Beach, the novelist, and other character witnesses, among them Maj. J. A. Drexel-Biddle, Philadelphia millionaire sportsman and Sunday school supporter.

First Appearance of Girl.
Rickard's defense was that Sarah Schoenfeld, 16, and her mother, then strangers to him, came to his office in the Madison Square tower to beg him to intercede with the governor of Wisconsin in behalf of Sarah's brother, who was sentenced there for burglary.

Rickard said he had never seen either of them before or received any communication from them. They entered

Maj. A. J. Drexel-Biddle. (Copyright: U. S. & W. Madison Square Garden introduced and quipped stories of Sarah Schoenfeld and Rickard, so far as was brought out today, even to ask this favor. According to Rickard, he readily consented to help, promising to interest Milwaukee friends of his in the case and later wrote a letter to the governor of Wisconsin.

Rickard's Story Upheld.
The defense version of how Rickard met the Schoenfeld girl was supported further by William Mann, an attorney at Madison Square Garden, who said the little girl had come in one day last summer with her mother.

The most powerful stroke for the defense came in Rickard's own testimony, apparently demolishing the story of Sarah Schoenfeld and Nellie Gasko that they had been intimidated by Rickard in the course of an automobile ride on the night of Jan. 23, two days after Rickard had been arrested on the charge of Alice Rick and Annie Hess. The two girls were positive in their depositions.

On this important night of Jan. 23, however, Rickard testified that he spent the whole evening at the residence of Max Steuer. He testified that Max Steuer was there, Charles Thorley, the forist, and Mr. Lehman of the firm of Cook, Leventritt & Nathan. All four men remained the whole evening in the same room, said Rickard.

Wife Testifies to Alibi.
This second alibi was sprung after the first had been apparently clinched by Rickard's wife, a woman of refined appearance, who has been ill for months. She said that her husband had called at about 3 p. m. at her room, where she lay ill on the night of Nov. 12.

Rex Beach, Vice President Eugene E. Allen of the National City company, and Charles E. Herron, publisher of newspapers at Anchorage, Juneau, Alaska, who made a trip here to testify, all told of the good character which Rickard bore at Nome. Rex Beach said he had known Rickard in Alaska for five years.

Anthony J. Drexel Biddle sought to shower Rickard with superlative praise as "the finest and aristocrat" but was cut short by an order of the court. He was allowed to praise Mr. Rickard in more ordinary language.

The trial is to be continued tomorrow with Rickard on the stand for further cross-examination.

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—The Bulgarian legation is puzzled over cablegrams that former Senator Henry F. Hollis of New Hampshire remarried in Rome upon the strength of a divorce obtained in Sofia, Bulgaria.

Officials of the legation expressed doubt whether Mr. Hollis, under the laws of their country, could have secured an annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Grace H. Hollis, who is now living in Princeton, N. J.

"Remarriage and divorce in Bulgaria," said Stephen Panaretov, Bulgarian minister to the United States, "are under the jurisdiction of religious organizations. There is no civil marriage. Divorce actions are not brought into the civil courts."

HOUSE SLASHES ARMY—TO SWELL BARREL OF PORK

Harbors and Rivers Get Big Appropriation.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Having reduced the size of the army in the name of economy, the house today voted to appropriate $15,000,000 more for river and harbor developments than the appropriations committee deemed justified.

In overriding the appropriations committee the house also delivered a wallop at the new budget system under which the administration is endeavoring to hold down expenditures to the amounts recommended by Director Dawes.

Mann Favors the Boost.
Incidentally, the Republicans split over the proceeding and Majority Leader Mondell [Wyo.], who led the fight to confine the river and harbor appropriation to the $27,000,000 recommended by the committee, was bowled over in the parliamentary fray by former Republican Leader, James R. Mann [Ill.], who championed the boost to $42,000,000.

After hours of wrangling, in which Mondell was supported by the appropriations committee and Mann by the rivers and harbors committee, the house voted, 158 to 54, for the $15,000,000 increase. In sharp contrast was the action of the house last week in rejecting the plea of the military affairs committee for an army of 143,000 and accepting the appropriations committee's maximum of 115,000.

Mann Explains the Boost.
Opponents of the move to boost the rivers and harbors appropriation, which will be distributed in many congressional districts, charged that the house "had curtailed national defense in order to swell the size of the pork barrel." Mr. Mann vigorously repelled such imputations, stressing the necessity of development of waterways to meet the transportation needs of the country.

When it was contended that the $15,000,000 boost would be a repudiation of the budget system Mr. Lineberger [Cal.] exclaimed:

"The house last week passed a bill for a $4,000,000,000 soldiers' bonus not provided for in the estimates of the budget director, and it is preparing to vote millions for good roads, in addition."

Mr. Mann said he was glad the house ignored the recommendations of the budget director on some propositions.

Mann Defends the Boost.
"I have not resigned my membership in this house," he added, "and I have not resigned my responsibility. I never knew the recommendations of the budget director were considered binding upon the house."

Mr. Burton [O.] took a leading part in the unsuccessful fight today to hold the rivers and harbors appropriations for the next year to $27,000,000. He contended that large lump sums appropriations, such as that of $42,000,000, should not be made, but that rivers and harbors improvements should be taken up and considered individually.

In recent years the practice has grown up of voting lump sums and allowing the army engineers to determine how the money should be apportioned.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 27.—[United News.]—The Ottoman government has sent an evasive note to the allies in reply to their request for an armistice. The Turkish government pointed out as well that the allied note failed to mention the evacuation of Thrace, including Adrianople by the Greeks, a condition which it considers essential to the safeguarding of Constantinople.

President Harding last night opened the West Town exposition in Chicago by wireless from the White House at Washington. His message was received at the Second Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets, where the exposition is being held.

The President's message was: "This exposition represents the re-establishment on a firmer basis of American business and the welding together of community interest."

The armory floor was occupied by 161 booths. Everything from women's wear to waffles was displayed. Beautiful models clad in the latest creations paraded over the heads of the crowd on a raised runway.

THRILLING FIGHT TO RESCUE MAD WOMAN IN TREE

Roped at Lip of Bluff
After 19 Hours.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—From a birdlike perch in the top of a tall tree overhanging a ravine seventy-five feet deep, a woman inmate of St. Elizabeth hospital defied rescuers for nineteen hours last night and today, being finally rescued this afternoon after a scaffold had been erected from which hospital attendants and police could operate.

Hospital attendants, police, firemen and officers of the army and navy participated in the unusual effort to rescue the woman, Mrs. Annie Lymboroch, who, scantily clad and barefooted, escaped from the hospital about 6 o'clock Sunday evening and climbed into the tall branches of a tree in the hospital yard.

Threatened to Kill Herself.
Throughout the night and until after noon today the woman fought capture, and threatened at intervals to leap into the deep ravine if any one dared to approach her.

All forms of strategy failed to move her during the nineteen hour ordeal. Even the strategem of having her husband bring their baby to the foot of the tree and appeal for the baby's sake that she come down failed. The baby, the woman shouted, was not hers. It did not wear that kind of a hat, she insisted.

"You can't fool me," she said. The baby, a 15 month old boy, looked sleepily upward, apparently enjoying the situation.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 27.—[United News.]—The Ottoman government has sent an evasive note to the allies in reply to their request for an armistice. The note says the Constantinople government has not sole jurisdiction, since the allies also sent a similar communication to the Kemal government at Ankara.

The Turkish government pointed out as well that the allied note failed to mention the evacuation of Thrace, including Adrianople by the Greeks, a condition which it considers essential to the safeguarding of Constantinople.

The port raised no objections in the note to the decision of the allies to occupy Gallipoli and thus to control the Dardanelles.

HARDING OPENS LOCAL EXHIBIT WITH WIRELESS

President Harding last night opened the West Town exposition in Chicago by wireless from the White House at Washington. His message was received at the Second Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets, where the exposition is being held.

The message was sent from the White House to Arlington and relayed from there.

The President's message was: "This exposition represents the re-establishment on a firmer basis of American business and the welding together of community interest."

The armory floor was occupied by 161 booths. Everything from women's wear to waffles was displayed. Beautiful models clad in the latest creations paraded over the heads of the crowd on a raised runway.

DE VALERA AID IN U. S. IS ACCUSED BY FREE STATERS Rival Groups Open Lecture Tour with Quarrel.

New York, March 27.—The high commission of the Irish provisional government tonight made public a statement that Premier Lloyd George, in December, 1920, sent to Michael Collins an offer of truce "on similar terms to that concluded in July, 1921," and that it was on the point of conclusion when the Rev. Michael O'Flanagan, then acting head of the Sinn Féin organization, "quered the pitch" by sending an unauthorized telegram to the British premier that Ireland wanted peace.

Secret Chapter of War.
The statement, based on what the commission described as "facts from the secret history of the Irish war," was in reply to an address made last night by Father O'Flanagan, a De Valera supporter, at a meeting of Irish republicans in New York, in which he was quoted as having said that "all the prudent people, all the tame, all the cautious, and the get-under-the-bed people are helping the English by rooting for the Free State."

"The first full flood of black and tan terror came in the last three months of 1920," the statement said. "In November Mr. Griffith, acting president of the Irish republic, was arrested and he appointed Michael Collins in his place."

"So well did Mr. Collins sustain the people in their hour of trial that Mr. Lloyd George by December decided that the campaign of terror was proving a failure and through the intermediary of Archbishop Clune of Perth, Australia, sent to Mr. Collins an offer of truce on similar terms to that concluded in July, 1921."

Spilling the Beans.
"The truce was on the point of conclusion when Father O'Flanagan, who was unaware of the fact, quered the pitch by sending a telegram to Mr. Lloyd George, without consulting anybody, declaring that Ireland wanted peace."

"Father O'Flanagan's weakness," the statement continued, "was one of the causes of resumption of 'terror' in which the Irish people suffered so heavily another six months."

"Shortly after this Father O'Flanagan, without being authorized by anybody and against the advice of Mr. Collins, went to London and held a secret conference with Mr. Lloyd George, who referred to him in the British parliament in complimentary terms."

Talks Bravely in Safety.
"Yet this is the man who now from the safe advantage of America talks of fighting to the last, and associates those who did fight when he was surrendering with 'tameness and cowardice.'"

"If Father O'Flanagan challenges any of these statements, they can be proved, one of the witnesses being the impartial authority of Archbishop Clune."

The statement was signed by James O'Mara, president of the commission; Gen. Piaras Beaslai, and Councillor Sean MacCacilli. Gen. Beaslai, in giving out the statement, declared:

Ask any bowler. All pins down the first ball—a lucky strike for him.

JOHN A. PEETZAT.

BURGULARS who bored their way into the basement of the drug store of John A. Peetzat, 701 South Kedzie avenue, early Monday morning, escaped with whisky valued at $8,000. The boring operations were carried on in order that access might be gained to the basement without setting off the burglar alarm. Mr. Peetzat believes that the robbers were the same pair which attempted to steal the liquor several weeks ago but were frustrated by the alarm.

Irish Parley Wednesday.

LONDON, March 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—The acceptance today by the Ulster government of the invitation to attend the Irish conference in London cleared the way for a gathering Wednesday, at which the British government will make a determined effort to bring the northern and southerners into accord.

Arthur Griffith, Michael Collins, and Eamon J. Duggan will represent the south, and Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, and several members of his cabinet the north. The British representative will be Winston Spencer Churchill, the colonial secretary, and other members of the government.

Neither the Ulsterites nor the Free Staters appear to be eager for the conference. Mr. Collins, in a statement issued in Dublin this afternoon, expressly disclaimed any desire on the part of the provisional government for it; at the same time he attacked Sir James Craig for alleged breach of faith in connection with an agreement reached at their recent meeting. His reference was in connection with the promise of Sir James to reinstate Catholic workers expelled from Belfast.

Some fears were expressed tonight that the statement of Mr. Collins was calculated to jeopardize the conference, but students of the Irish situation advanced the opinion that Sir James Craig would not take it to heart, but would assume it was made for electioneering purposes in the south, where the followers of Eamon De Valera might try to make political capital out of a meeting of the Free Staters with the Ulster premier.

Army Officers Rebel.
DUBLIN, March 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—The brigade staff of the Irish republican army at Athlone today left the military barracks there after having refused to obey orders from general headquarters. The men declared that they recognized only the new executive committee chosen Sunday in the meeting here. The men in the ranks of the brigade are remaining loyal to general headquarters.

A force of republicans attacked the police barracks at Newtown Cunningham, occupied by Free State troops, early Sunday. After a rifle duel of three hours' duration the attacking party retired, leaving six prisoners and several wounded.

Try to Assassinate Official.
BELFAST, March 27.—An attempt was made tonight to assassinate County Inspector Harrison of the Royal Irish constabulary, who is second in command of the "specials." A number of shots were fired at him while he was walking in Cromac street.

A notice posted near the city hall in Dundalk, County Louth, a strong Sinn Féin center near the northern border of the Free State territory, says: "On and after March 29 for every Catholic man, woman, boy, girl, or child murdered or maltreated, so also shall the same quantity of helpers of the systematic murder of our fellow Catholics meet the same fate."

IRISH DEFY LAW; TAKE FARMS FOR LANDLESS MEN

CARRICK-ON-SHANNON, Ireland, March 27.—Sixty men today drove herds of cattle out of the Deer Park lands farm, over which there has been agitation for some time, the contention being that the farm should be divided among the local landless young men.

At the neighboring town of Lis-moyle about 1,000 men armed with farming implements brought about the reinstatement of a tenant.

In County Leitrim a liaison officer read a decree today to the effect that there should be no interference in land controversies until the courts are functioning, but the warning was disregarded, and within an hour boundary fences were built for evicted tenants.

How to make GOOD COFFEE

THE goodness of Coffee depends very largely on the care with which it is made. Read the following six rules carefully. They may enable you to make even better Coffee than you are now enjoying.

1 Keep Your Coffee Air-tight
Roasted Coffee loses its flavor rapidly, especially after it is ground. All Coffee, and especially Ground Coffee, should be kept in a container that is moisture-proof and as nearly air-tight as possible.

2 Measure Carefully
The amount of Coffee to use depends upon the strength you like. Experiment until you find just the amount of Coffee that suits your taste, then stick to it. Don't guess. Measure proportions carefully, both Coffee and water.

3 Use Grounds Only Once
Don't leave the Coffee grounds in the pot and re-use for the next meal. Used Coffee grounds are of no more value in making good Coffee than ashes in building a fire.

4 Use Boiling Water
The water used in making Coffee should come to a full boil before it is taken from the fire and poured into the Coffee pot. Don't let the water and the ground bean boil together after they are mixed. Boil your water, but don't boil your Coffee!

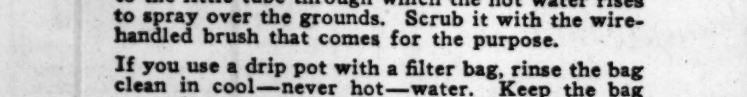

5 Serve at Once
Many a pot of perfect Coffee has been ruined by letting it cool. If you must wait, keep the Coffee piping hot, but never let it boil. Re-cooking injures the flavor.

6 Scour the Coffee Pot
It is not enough to give the pot a hurried rinse and set it away to dry. Scour it even more carefully than other cooking utensils.

If you use a percolator, pay particular attention to the little tube through which the hot water rises to spray over the grounds. Scrub it with the wire-handled brush that comes for the purpose.

If you use a drip pot with a filter bag, rinse the bag clean in cool—never hot—water. Keep the bag sweet by submerging it in cold water when not in use. Renew filter bags frequently.

This advertisement is part of an educational campaign conducted by the leading Coffee merchants of the United States in co-operation with the planters of the State of Sao Paulo, Brazil, which produces more than half of all the Coffee used in the United States of America. ALL IRISH WANT PEACE, BUT ONLY THEIR OWN KIND

Bigotry Called the Chief Menace to Island.

BY PAUL WILLIAMS.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
LONDON, Derry, Ireland, March 27.—The Irish are guarding the boundary between the north and south because it fears another invasion of armed men from the south. It is believed that if the Sinn Féin come again they will come in greater force and with the intention of remaining until the people consent to be governed from Dublin instead of Belfast.

This is the impression I gained from persons residing along the northern side of the line dividing the six northern counties from the twenty-six southern counties of Ireland.

What the Other Side Says.
The Irish are organizing a military force under Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson and are entrenching its border with the hope of holding the large areas which the treaty will give to the north.

This is the impression I received from persons living along the southern side of the boundary line.

Almost all these people want peace, but each faction wants its own way. The minority in each case is willing to make concessions to pave the way to normalcy, but is too small to be influential.

Rigors Flourish Like Dandelions.
Death is more desirable than remaining under the Ulster parliament, say the Nationalists in the six northern counties.

Double death is preferable to being ruled by the southern gunmen, reply the loyalists of Ulster.

Rigors flourish on every hand like dandelions and they spoil the scenery just as much. Behind the differences in politics lie differences in religion, race and ideals.

Supporting these differences the newspapers generally are biased one way or the other and flourish rapidly over the rapid succession of outrages. It seems the matter is not that a man is killed by a Catholic or a Protestant is the victim.

Snipers Busy All Day.
This is the condition that has led the constables of the north and the Irish republican army of the south to take up positions along all the roads crossing the Ulster frontier, approximately 135 miles long.

One part of this northern boundary is County Monaghan, the apex of the Free State's northern line. Blackwater river is the northern boundary of Monaghan and if the district proves as troublesome as supposed not much time will elapse before Blackwater runs red.

The loyalists in the north expect an invasion despite bluffs and bridges and trenches and wired roads. One cannot forget the words of Owen O'Duffy, chief of staff of the Irish republican army, which were spoken at Armagh in Ulster territory, that if Ulster did not come in the south would "tighten the screws and if necessary use lead. It may be necessary to cut off Belfast absolutely for the time."

Charge Sinn Féin Terrorism.
The Ulstermen assert that since the Irish republican army has been perfecting its organization in the north, which has received a considerable quantity of arms and other equipment as well as instructors. They say

Senate Vote Unanimous for Addenda to Pacific Treaty

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(Special.)—The senate today unanimously ratified the so-called "supplementary" treaty, making it clear that the Japanese mainland is not included in the scope of the four power pact.

At the same time it adopted a reservation offered by Senator Lodge (Mass.) designed to straighten out the powers to the effect that domestic questions, such as immigration, do not come within the terms of the pact.

The vote on this reservation was also unanimous.

Pacific the Opposition.
The dispute over the separate declaration was raised by Senator Hitchcock (Neb.), Democrat, just before the final roll call on ratifying the four power pact Friday.

For a time Republican leaders contended that no senate ratification was necessary to make the declaration effective, but as the controversy grew extended and threatened to lead to litigation Senator Lodge decided to embody the entire declaration in a reservation to the resolution ratifying the supplementary treaty.

By adopting this resolution the senate in one act voted its concurrence in both reservations which the delegates found it necessary to make before they submitted the treaties for ratification.

Even Senator Borah (Idaho) and Senator Johnson (California) and other "irreconcilables" supported the supplementary treaty and the accompanying declaration reservation. Senator Johnson made a speech in favor of them.

He said he personally was unable to appreciate the necessity for the declaration because he could not conceive of any self respecting nation submitting its domestic questions, such as immigration, to a council of foreign powers for adjudication.

"Not Treaty of Consultation."
"But somebody did see the need of the reservation," said Senator Johnson.

son. "Let there be no doubt about it. The senate should adopt it. We have been told time and time again that the four power pact was merely a treaty of consultation. But when its framers decided upon that reservation they knew it was not just a treaty of consultation just as the American people ought to know it."

In the course of the debate Senator Johnson drew from Senator Underwood (Ala.), one of the delegates to the armament conference, an admission that he considered the four power pact the equivalent in some respects to article X of the league of nations.

Senator Johnson expressed pleasure in being in accord with Senator Underwood's interpretation. The connecting point between article X and the four power pact, the obligation to respect territorial integrity.

5-53 Naval Treaty Next.
A reservation offered by Senator Robinson (Ark.) to take the island of Saghalien out of the scope of the four power pact was rejected, 53 to 20.

The 5-53 naval agreement is next on the list of pacts to be ratified. It will be taken up at once.

FRANCE'S NEED EXPLAINED TO BUSINESS MEN

Anne Morgan Tells How
U. S. Can Aid.

Before a roomful of Chicago bankers and business men yesterday at the Hotel La Salle, Miss Anne Morgan, chairman of the executive committee of the American Committee for Devastated France, called their attention to little envelopes beside their plates.

"Fill out the blank checks which are inside for as much as you think you can give," she said.

And here are the reasons she gave for the need for American money: "Help us to be true to them; for they trust us," said Miss Morgan.

"The American committee is the outward and visible sign that America does not forget that France was our battleground. In this work politicians do not exist. It is one nation speaking to another."

Books Have Wide Circulation.
In the circulating libraries supported by the committee, she said, are 13,000 French volumes, for the children and old people. The books have a circulation of 43,000.

Five Boy Scout camps are now installed there, she said, and the French girls are demanding recognition, too. A young woman educated here is going to a recent case at the Murphy Memorial hospital. Jensen interrupting, denied that his men had engaged in any violence. He said he was elected to "clean up" and his hands were clean.

Accuses Landis Committee.
"But, he declared, the contractors and the citizens' committee had employed violence, had armed men patrolling the streets, under authority of the sheriff."

Commissioner McKelvin then introduced the resolution calling upon the board to refuse further payments to Snyder until he had uninvited the force employed on the county's contract. Commissioner Joseph Fitzgerald seconded the motion.

Commissioner Charles N. Goodnow, a former judge, spoke on the legal aspects of the motion. He had always in public life been in favor of union labor, he said, and the entire board had so proved itself.

Contractor Wins Over Carpenters.

An attempt by Harry Jensen, president of the carpenters' union, to block the payment of $500,000 to the contractor building the new Juvenile Detention House because he was operating under the terms of the Landis wage award, failed by a vote of 6 to 5 in a meeting of the board of county commissioners yesterday.

Jensen had complained to President Daniel Ryan of the board that union carpenters were barred from work on the building by J. W. Snyder & Co., holders of the $470,000 contract, because the carpenters had refused to accept the Landis award.

Both Appear Before Board.
Ryan invited Jensen and Snyder to appear before the board. On motion of Commissioner R. W. McKelvin they were permitted to state their cases.

Jensen opened the argument with a display of verbal pyrotechnics against former Judge Landis and the associated builders and citizens' committee to enforce the Landis award. Jensen was followed by John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor. Fitzpatrick declared the barring of the carpenters to be a "criminal conspiracy to break the back of organized labor."

He was corroborated by several members of the hoisting engineers' union.

Snyder spoke at length in defense of his action. He said he didn't think Jensen had any standing in the community when he permitted slugging by members of his union. He alluded to a recent case at the Murphy Memorial hospital. Jensen interrupting, denied that his men had engaged in any violence. He said he was elected to "clean up" and his hands were clean.

But, he declared, the contractors and the citizens' committee had employed violence, had armed men patrolling the streets, under authority of the sheriff.

Commissioner McKelvin then introduced the resolution calling upon the board to refuse further payments to Snyder until he had uninvited the force employed on the county's contract. Commissioner Joseph Fitzgerald seconded the motion.

"We would be liable to impeachment and imprisonment for conspiracy to extort if we passed this resolution."

Commissioner Goodnow then offered a substitute resolution declaring it the sentiment of the board that only resident union labor be employed and union wages paid. Commissioner McKelvin moved to table this substitute.

On the vote the motion to table was lost—6 to 5. The roll call was: Yes—Bartley Burg, Joseph M. Fitzgerald, Robert W. McKelvin, Emmet Wheelan, Frank J. Johnson, Nays—John Carlin, Charles N. Goodnow, George B. Miller, Tom Murray, Albert Novak, and Dudley D. Piersen. Mrs. E. W. Bemis passed the vote. On the subsequent roll call for the passage of the Goodnow resolution, all but McKelvin and Fitzgerald registered "yes."

SOVIET LEADER WRITES RUSSIA'S VIEW ON GENOA

Suspicious of Silence of Europe Powers.

BY CHRISTIAN RAKOWSKY.
[President of the Ukrainian Soviet Republic and Russian delegate to the Genoa economic conference.]
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
BERLIN, March 27.—We consider the conference at Genoa as the first of a series to be called to consider the reconstruction of Europe and all questions directly and indirectly pertaining to it. The absence of America is certainly regrettable. We must consider its absence as being only temporary, because the economic life of the United States, especially after the war, is intimately bound to the economic life of Europe and of Russia in particular.

Attitude of Silence.

I cannot make any prophecy as to the results of the conference at Genoa, but consider that all that has been written by the press of the intentions of this and that government has no definite character. No government has as yet informed its parliament of its attitude towards the Genoa conference.
The first of this sort will be a coming statement from Prime Minister Lloyd George in the British house of commons, to which we attach great importance. It is true that we have a declaration by the Italian government on the conference at Monte Citorio, but this is of too general a character.

Suspicious of Powers.

But as to the communists, I am skeptical towards the pacifist intentions of the capitalist governments and of these men of affairs.

Concerning our relations with America, we have continually made efforts to reestablish relations with the United States, to which we are bound by numerous interests in Europe and Asia.
We consider it indispensable that the United States participate in the conference for it to be a success.

Concerning Russia's program: We have two programs, the first of which concerns the progressive reestablish-ment of Russia—agriculture, transportation, and industries—and the second concerns the rôle Russia must play in the restoration of the world's economy. I hope to inform the invited governments of the details of these programs before the sessions begin.

BIRKENHEAD IN LORDS REBUKES BRITISH JUSTICE

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1922: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, March 27.—Lord Birkenhead, chief justice of England, delivered a stinging rebuke to Lord Carson of the Appeals court in the house of lords this afternoon for Carson's departure from precedent in speaking to a partisan political meeting.

All traditions of the British bench have been outraged, said the lord chancellor, by Lord Carson's action, and if it were to be countenanced it would be impossible to say what would become of the British judiciary, which has been the "pride of the world for its impartiality and for its complete official withdrawal from all partisan quarrels."

Lord Carson was absent from the house of lords owing to a heavy cold.
The outburst was occasioned by Lord
Carson's speech at Burton on Trent on Saturday, wherein he bitterly denounced the coalition government and attacked individual members of the cabinet.

Speech by Birkenhead.

Lord Birkenhead stigmatized Lord

Carson as a "judge who, on the platform, thinks himself entitled to make bitter taunts against individual members of his majesty's government and deliver crude partisan political attacks on the policy of the government."
"If it is law that a lord in this house is to be at liberty to go on the political platform and make a party attack on the government, will anybody contend that the same liberties are to be extended to judges of the Court of Appeals and other courts?"

Sees Danger Over Labor Law.

"If that state of affairs once rose,
what would become of our judiciary?
Think of problems between employer and employee, which are bound to come before law courts, and might in due course come to this house. Think of these cases having to be decided before judges whom every one knows is a partisan in these matters."

It is deemed probable in political circles that Lord Birkenhead's rebuke may result in Carson resigning from his position as lord of appeals, where-to he was appointed last year. It is pointed out that for the lord chancellor to correct a law lord in such pointed and incisive terms is without parallel within modern times.

SMALL ON STUMP TO AID WHEELER IN SENATE FIGHT

Jacksonville, Ill., March 27.—Gov.
Small assumed charge of the senatorial campaign in the Forty-fifth district today, took the stump for John
A. Wheeler, senate administration leader, and hurled defiance at the Sullivan organization backing Representative Earl B. Searcy for the senate against Wheeler.

The Illinois state fair, since being located at Springfield, never had a better friend than Len Small," he asserted.

"After the legislature passed an appropriation of $450,000 for new buildings at the fair grounds to replace buildings destroyed by fire in 1917, it was discovered, contrary to general belief, that a clear title to the fair grounds had never been given to the state, and under some conditions the land would revert to the original owners."

Sangamon county's refusal to give the state a clear title was due, the governor charged, to the opposition of the Sullivan organization.

Chases Dirt

Give Old Dutch Cleanser the run of the house —and it will clean every corner and crevice for you—quickly, cheaply and thoroughly.

That's what makes Old Dutch your best friend and helper around the house.

These qualities are inborn. They lie in the peculiar, natural character of the material of which Old Dutch is made—a material mined from the earth.

Each particle is a soft, flat, ribbed flake that lies flat on the surface and in cleaning picks up all the dirt, leaving a clean sweep behind it.

There are no jagged, hard, sharp particles to scratch.
Scratched surfaces fill up with dirt and make cleaning hard.

A little Old Dutch goes so far because in cleaning the flat particles break up into many smaller flat particles that get into every crevice and clean it out instead of digging old scratches deeper and grinding in the dirt.

All this means economy. Remember, too, it contains no dangerous lye or acids.

Every particle cleans; there is no waste

DETROIT MAKES STREETS SAFE FOR THE CHILD

Citizens' Group Curbs the Reckless Drivers.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

DETROIT, Mich., March 27.—[Special.]—What is a child's life worth? Detroit authorities asked themselves this question months ago when police reported that 200 children had been killed in thirty months' time through street accidents. Statisticians reported that the life of a child is more precious than any other commodity known to man. They proved it is worth more than swift transportation; more than the comfort and convenience of any automobile driver whose money can buy him away from a jail sentence, and more than the time that may be given by prominent citizens to organizations against a continued death toll.

Children's Mortality Reduced.
It was this public realization of value that resulted in city cooperation which has this year cut down children street fatalities 50 per cent, saving the lives of three of Detroit's quarter of a million children each month. It brought about the organization of the police accident investigation bureau which takes to court every driver whose carelessness causes an accident. It resulted in enforcement of the law which sends drivers found guilty of manslaughter to fifteen years' imprisonment; those guilty of causing an accident through reckless driving to three months' imprisonment; and those guilty of driving while drunk to the same penalty. It brought about the present organization of 1,800 citizens in the police reserve body and put a score of representative business men in charge of a public safety council with $10,000 a year of the city's money to spend.

Public safety in Detroit is now handled with seriousness and dispatch. More than a dozen men, each of them representing a division of the city's interests, meet each Friday to submit suggestions, weigh safety problems, and order remedies.

Police Help Work.
The police department is represented by Deputy Commissioner Walters and Inspector Jackson. Other interests represented include the fire department, school board, transportation association, the railroad and car lines, the recreational division of the city government, the automobile club, and the various social organizations.

The school board has established safety courses for all school children, has adopted safety games and reaches 1,800 children daily. The fire department in the past year has reduced false fire alarms by 112, thus keeping about 500 speeding fire fighting machines off the streets. The transportation representatives reroute commercial vehicles, trucks, jitneys, cabs, and wagons to avoid hazardous spots.

Drivers Are Instructed.
The automobile club teaches drivers how to drive and how to avoid seemingly unavoidable accidents. The city engineering representative rebuilds streets and separates grades. The recreational department works with the po-

ANNA WAGNER.

The path of the poor walking girl is beset with naught but flirtatious motorists, Miss Anna Wagner, arrested as a boulevard vamp by the East Chicago avenue police, declared vehemently in the Movable court yesterday.

"I'm not a Gold Coast vamp," said she, stamping a red strapped pump on the floor. "I'm a poor manure, trying to make my own way."

Police officers maintained that Miss Wagner had cast a too friendly eye at motorists at Ohio street and Michigan avenue. The case was continued till April 12.

Police department to protect children at points of danger. Last year sixty playgrounds were made in city streets by roping off the section and rerouting traffic.

Detroit has made it hard for any violator of the traffic law to escape. Citizens' complaint cards are distributed in every neighborhood, to be filled out by anyone observing any sort of law violation and to be collected daily and acted upon by the police. Police reserves, under Commissioner B. K. Davis, are everywhere. They are unknown to the public and without police power unless it is given them by an officer.

Jail Sentences Given.
The organization has made it practically impossible for traffic law violators to "get away" with dangerous practices and strict legal action has convinced every driver that if he persists in violating the law he will certainly see the inside of a jail. An 18 per cent reduction has been made in automobile insurance rates during the last year as a result of the safety work.

SECOND MURDER TRIAL OF BURCH TO START TODAY

BY EDWARD DOHERTY.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 27.—[Special.]—The second trial of Arthur Courtenay Burch, charged with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, sweetheart of Mrs. Madeline Obenchain, may begin tomorrow.

The trial was to have started this morning, but Burch's chief counsel, Paul W. Schenck, was on another case. Burch is the son of the Rev. W. A. Burch of Evanston and a former son-in-law of Bishop William Quayle. The jury in his first trial voted 10 to 2 for conviction. One of the jurors believed him innocent of the murder, another was convinced he was insane.

JAP INVADERS OF SIBERIA KILL 30 REDS IN FIGHT

Chita Declares Neutrality Agreement Violated.

BY RODERICK MATHESON.

VLADIVOSTOK, March 27.—With the Dairen conference again deadlocked, a serious situation is arising in the maritime province, the Reds demanding the right to pursue the White army into the railway zone established by the Japanese.

Already one brush between the Reds and Japanese has been reported at Grodekovo, where the Japanese maneuvering force was attacked by a Chita detachment of three hundred. Three Japanese were wounded. The fight lasted an hour. Another clash was reported from Evgenyofka, but no details were received.

Foreign Minister Janson of Chita sent a note to the Japanese command, stating that as the Japanese are assisting the Whites, the military agreement respecting the neutral zone has been violated and abrogated, and therefore the Reds propose marching upon Vladivostok. The Japanese are referring the matter to Tokyo, not desiring to assume the responsibility for precipitating war.

Col. Uyeda left hurriedly for Tokyo yesterday. Meanwhile, the Japanese command notified Chita that the Red advance will be resisted pending the Tokyo negotiations. The Chita note says that whereas the commercial agreement will be signed soon at Dairen, it is expected the Japanese will not object to the Red campaign into the zone, but will support and facilitate the Chita army.

Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcasses beef in Chicago for week ending Saturday, March 25, on shipments sold out, ranged from 8 cents to 18 cents per pound and averaged 11.77 cents per pound.—Adv.

FRANCE FORGETS TRADE TO TALK ARMY, HE FINDS

Chicagoan Says New Leader Is Needed.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1922: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, March 27.—The military race has been run and won and the business race is on with England, Japan, Germany, and the United States jockeying for position, said John Alexander Carroll, president of the Hyde Park bank, Chicago, in summarizing his impressions of his visit to Europe today. "It saddens me to hear every one in Italy and France talking about military position and silent as to the business situation."

"Europe has had a Poch and now needs a Napoleon for reconstruction. Business efficiency is lacking in Italy and France. If these countries would pay more attention to building factories than to military strategy, conditions would improve."

"The French must pay as much attention to business engagements as to dinner engagements. A people who close their shops two hours at noon are unfit to enter a league of business nations."

French Women Good at Business.
"French women head the retail trade. I find the French woman efficient, ready to get whatever article is desired, selling politely, handing out the correct change, and bidding me good day."

"The banking system in the Latin countries is different from ours. The bankers are interested in too many enterprises. Partnership is a poor financial ship to sail."

"Hoarding in the rural communities of Europe is keeping much money out of circulation. It must be directed to its own channels."

C. B. Pike on Way Home.
Charles B. Pike and wife of Chicago are in Paris, after visiting Egypt and Italy. They will go to London next week and will return to America at the end of April.

While ascending the Nile the Pike's boat discovered another river steamer carrying tourists which had been aground on a sand bank for four days. The food was running low and the passengers were frantic at being marooned so long. They were taken aboard the Pike's steamer.

"Well informed and unbiased authorities, including a number of American business men there, assured me that the Egyptians were incapable of self-government, and stated that the British must control the country or everything will go to pieces," said Mr. Pike. "Watson Fash, an Englishman, declared a vast reclamation project in the Sudan, providing for opening thousands of acres to cultivation, control."

Egyptians Want Big Army.

"The head of an American mission told me that about 97 per cent of the Egyptians are illiterate, but they want a larger army, thinking that 14,000 men are not sufficient."

"The United States should copy the Italian hotelkeepers' plan of adding 10 per cent to the bill for tips. Under pain of dismissal the tip does not seek additional tips. However, the waiters and chambermaids have become salesmen, trying to persuade the guests to take bigger orders."

LLOYD GEORGE FINDS CABINET
SPLIT ON RUSSIA

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LONDON, March 27.—[By Tribune Wireless.]—Prime Minister Lloyd George returned from Criccieth this afternoon and drove straight to 10 Downing street, where he plunged immediately into business. He looked healthy and tanned and told a friend he never felt better in his life. His first conference was with Austen Chamberlain, the government's spokesman, on the political situation.

A new problem has arisen in the attitude of some of the prime minister's colleagues on Russia. Mr. Lloyd George is strongly in favor of conditional recognition of the soviet government, dejure as well as de facto, as it has maintained itself longer than any other government in Europe except his own.

This policy is distasteful to some of his colleagues, especially Winston Churchill.

EIGHT MEN TAKEN AS PICKPOCKETS IN RAID ON HOTEL

Trailing a man accused of robbing Benjamin Sweig, an insurance broker, 175 West Jackson boulevard, of $100 in Liberty bonds, the police yesterday raided the Tremier hotel, 409 Oakwood boulevard, and arrested eight men, who, they say, are pickpockets.

They gave the names of Walter Byrne, 7839 South State street; Hugh Early, 166 West Washington street; Joseph Meyers, 4228 Grand boulevard; Harry Gold, 4624 Indiana avenue; Joseph Harris, 3340 West Roosevelt road; Samuel Harris, 4810 Drexel boulevard; Robert Saunders, 3840 Grand boulevard; Joseph Miller, 4351 Cottage Grove avenue; Harry Goldberg, 2023 Ogden avenue.

The police say Lewis Martin, the man they were trailing, tried to dispose of the bonds and they were notified. He was traced to the Tremier hotel.

'BOOTLEG QUEEN' WILL NOT FIGHT ANNULMENT PLEA

Mrs. Catherine Timponi, alleged "queen of America's bootleg trust" and wife of Emilio Frank Timponi, leader of the Illinois theater orchestra, is not going to contest her husband's suit for annulment, according to advices from Omaha, Neb.

Mrs. Timponi is quoted in Omaha newspapers as having said that she will let her husband proceed with his action, as he had already made a "substantial" settlement with her. Mr. Timponi, in his suit filed Saturday, charges that Mrs. Timponi married him three months after having obtained a divorce, without telling him about it.

The title "queen of the bootleg trust" was given to Mrs. Timponi by Omaha police officials following her arrest on charges of having liquor and counterfeit revenue stamps in her possession.

More and Better Light

FOR more than 30 years the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been a big refiner of kerosene oil.

During all this time there has been a steady improvement in the quality of its product. This improvement has been more marked in the past ten or fifteen years during which time the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has developed methods of manufacturing to eliminate the danger of lamp explosions.

While the kerosene has been improved the devices for using it have remained unchanged.

Recognizing the fact that the users of Perfection Kerosene were unable to get a maximum service from the oil they burned, and realizing that the failure was due not to the oil but to the devices, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) set its experts to work to find a better burner and a more efficient chimney.

These men, working with the manufacturers of burners and chimneys, have succeeded in developing devices which increased largely the efficiency of the oil.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) does not sell lamps. But it believes that the users of lamps should be informed as to how to get the best results from the kerosene they use.

To accomplish this result this Company is distributing sixty thousand of the new burners and chimneys to dealers handling kerosene that they may demonstrate to their patrons how to get the most light from Perfection Kerosene by using appliances correctly designed.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has arranged with leading chimney manufacturers to stamp chimneys made in accordance with the design and specifications with the following trade mark:

This is but one of the many ways in which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) seeks to increase the efficiency of the service it is rendering the people of the territory it serves.

BEHIND THE NAVAL RATIO.

The great majority of the American people, we believe, is heartily in favor of the Pacific treaty as passed by the senate. If this be true it is the task of this majority to support actively and wholeheartedly the terms of the agreement. They will include a ratio of naval vessels of five units for Great Britain, five for the United States, and three for Japan. This ratio has been figured by American experts as providing a minimum of safety for this country. If we wish to support the treaty, therefore, we must see to it that the ratio is preserved in fact as well as in figures.

Such preservation requires two things on the part of America. One is an adequate and well trained personnel to man the warships left to us. The other is a fleet of well equipped, well manned, and modern merchant vessels which can act as auxiliaries of the ships of war in time of need.

Both England and Japan will preserve their position in the ratio with both adequate naval personnel and extensive merchant auxiliaries. There is a tendency in the United States to let both these essentials go by the board and to sink into third place for lack of men to man the full complement of our naval vessels, and for lack of merchant auxiliaries. It is a dangerous tendency. Even the pacifists should see the danger and oppose it.

The United States was able to call the recent conference, bring about agreement on limitation of armaments, and arrange a treaty to keep the peace because it was the most powerful among the nations. It was our power, not our altruism, which gave us the position of leadership. It is possible that this step toward disarmament was only a first step. When its good results become evident there will be a tendency to extend them, perhaps to further naval limitation, perhaps to limitation of armaments. But if the United States sacrifices its power it will sacrifice its position of leadership to such an end, not to mention the sacrifice of its ability to defend itself in case of emergency.

We have everything to lose and nothing to gain but the possible saving of a few dollars in the immediate present, if we willfully give up our position in the 5-5-3 ratio. Yet that is exactly what is being aimed at by those congressmen who would reduce the naval personnel to two-thirds the number necessary to keep our ships in active commission. They should be opposed vigorously.

At the same time President Harding and those congressmen who are supporting his stand for a subsidy for our merchant marine should be supported in that work. Senator Fensholt of Louisiana puts the matter clearly when he says: "Any limitation in the future construction of merchant vessels will render the necessity of a merchant marine and its personnel of even greater importance than it has been in the past; and without an adequate merchant marine the safety of our country might easily be imperiled."

There is no doubt of the truth of that statement. And England has today nearly four times the number and tonnage of fast merchant ships suitable for naval auxiliaries controlled by the United States. Japan also has a goodly number. Neither England nor Japan could support these fleets without subsidies in some form. Neither can the United States. It is logical that we should subsidize such a fleet. To back up the Pacific treaty, which the majority of Americans want to do, as well as for commercial reasons, the subsidy should be approved.

HOW DETROIT HANDLES SPEEDERS.

Judge C. L. Bartlett of the Detroit Traffic court says that when he endeavored to control speeding by assessing small fines, the old system, he noticed a great many repeaters in the court. He had persons stand about in the courtroom crowd to pick up the remarks of the speeders and learned that they did not pay any attention to fines. He determined to send the offenders to jail.

Louis Reanick in the National Safety News says he sat in Judge Bartlett's court and heard him send twenty-nine speeders to manual labor in the House of Correction for from one to ten days. Five of the persons sentenced were reputed to be millionaires. It was in this court that young Dodge got his five day sentence.

Fines are imposed in addition to this, and automobile licenses are revoked for periods of from three months to a year. Judge Bartlett said that there used to be about 300 speeders a case a week in his court. Now there are six or seven.

Detroit, as the center of automobile making, has more automobiles per capita than any other city. It is working towards the smallest death record. Speeding and traffic violations are not the only causes of automobile accidents, but they are inexcusable causes. Detroit reduced its traffic fatalities from 240 in 1920 to 134 in 1921. Until 1921 the fatalities had been going up. Now they are coming down.

AMERICAN DIVORCE IN BULGARIA.

Mrs. Henry H. Hollis thought she was the wife of her husband, a former United States senator from New Hampshire, until she was informed that Bulgarian courts in Sofia had granted him a divorce. She had heard that he had married again, but she had heard nothing of his divorce and had thought that he was a bigamist.

She had a separation allowance before Mr. Hollis went into the Balkans and obtained a judicial quittance. His lawyer now says that Hollis may do as he pleases regarding the maintenance of the wife he left in the United States. This is an attenuation of the sketchiness of American matrimony.

An American woman, saying good-bye to her husband at the dock, remains at home in a quandary. It may occur to him to change her social and economic status while he is in Sumatra, Borneo, Syria, Abyssinia, or the Belgian Congo.

This might be an added poignancy in the farewell, but it is hardly an added stability to the nation. Paria divorces by consent are not unknown to restless Americans of wealth. They have preferred the comparative secrecy of French court proceedings to the high lights of an action in law at home. Husband and wife have reached their agreement abroad to go their separate ways and neither has been the worse for the foreign jurisdiction.

To admit, however, that a man may go into a Bulgarian court and absolve himself from all responsibility for the economic status of a woman who may have devoted the best years of her life to him is something which American community sense will hardly do. A husband may escape responsibility by remaining abroad, if he has no property in the United States. He may be divorced abroad and remarried abroad. He may escape alimony obligations. He may leave his wife flat. He may do almost anything he cares to do if he and his belongings are outside the jurisdiction of American courts, but we imagine that if he has $10 worth of material in America the wife he divorced in Bulgaria will have some hold on him in the United States.

Enough confusion in American life has been caused by the diversity of divorce laws in the states. It is not likely that we will concede the jurisdiction of a Bulgarian court to throw an American woman out of her rights.

SMALL CARVES THE TURKEY.

C. R. Miller, director; Frank T. Sheets, superintendent, and Clifford Ordway, engineer of the state division of highways, advise citizens of bond issue route 44—Kankakee to Wilton Center—that the division of highways, state department of public works and buildings, will hold a conference at Kankakee at the Luna theater, March 30, in connection with the above named route.

"We are advised," these highway officials report by circular to the citizens interested, "that Gov. Small will be in Kankakee and will deliver a talk on the road situation at 7:30 o'clock in the evening."

We suspect that the advice given the director, the superintendent, and the engineer comes from the feed box. We have an idea that the citizens interested in bond issue route 44 can count absolutely upon the appearance of Small at the time mentioned unless he falls down a flight of stairs and breaks his neck or unless he has an accident on bad roads in one of the counties to which he will not give any money for road building. Mr. Small will be there. We do not want to spoil the party by a forecast, but we could say now what Mr. Small will say then:

"On the night of April 11, when the wires are flashing the returns from the legislative districts, I shall be looking at them, and I shall see what men you have nominated for the legislature. I shall see, and if I see that you have nominated men who will stand by your governor I will see that you get roads."

He will say this from force of habit—unless he loses his nerve before March 30—and some of the citizens in the meeting will laugh if he does. Kankakee county being his own home county and being a little better supplied with roads already than the other counties on account of that fact.

If Mr. Small can't carry his own county without using some of the $60,000,000 road fund of the state he is beginning to slip badly. He may keep from the vote buying offer to the electorate of his home town, but we think out of force of habit he'll make it.

THE JOB FACING MR. HAYS.

Will H. Hays, director general of the motion picture industry, has started his new work by accepting "the challenge of the American public for the highest quality of art and interest in its entertainment." That sounds promising. We hope it justifies the sound. But Mr. Hays has a big job ahead of him.

Ignoring for the moment the ethics of the moving pictures, the appeal to poor taste and questionable moral qualities of some pictures, there remains a great deal of room for improvement. Many pictures are boring. Many stars are overrated. The quality of many scenarios is poor. What the public wants, we believe, is better picture plays and better played pictures, regardless of the names on the billboards.

There is a large field for Mr. Hays. It is a humanizing field, such as he saw in the postoffice department. Perhaps he can cultivate it to advantage. He will, we fear, be handicapped by opposition of his principals to the importation of foreign films free of duty. If he does that he will cut off the greatest possible corrective of mediocrity in American moving pictures. If he does that it will make his self-imposed task of improving the quality of our pictures more difficult, but will thereby make his success the greater if he attains it.

Editorial of the Day

EATING LESS MEAT.

[Galveston Daily News.]

The average American is eating each year a little more than his own weight in meat, according to figures given by Thomas E. Wilson of Wilson & Co., packers. The average per capita meat consumption in 1921 was 156 pounds. In 1920 it was 151½ pounds. Mr. Wilson considers the dwindling meat appetite of America a serious menace. But it is probable that there is no dwindling of the meat appetite of America. On the other hand, it is highly probable that something quite different is the cause of the reduced consumption of America. The fact is that meat is consumed in proportion to the demand, or appetite, subject to the very important limitation of the consumer's financial ability to supply that demand at current prices.

Since 1900 there has been some reduction in the per capita eating of meat due to vegetarianism, perhaps, though it is likely that this factor is negligible. There has been considerable progress in the manufacture and preparation of meat substitute dishes and of substitutes for meat by-products, particularly lard. This has had its influence. But the principal reason why America buys less meat per capita is because America can't afford to do otherwise.

The evidence of this assertion isn't hard to produce. Take your stand at any butcher shop today and wait for the customer who asks for a dime steak. He won't come. If he did he would get precious little steak. In 1900 a dime steak would supply a family of four or five, with trimmings enough for the family dog.

A street, young girl was striving,
Across the Loop to ride;
Her sweetheart he was dying and
She yearned to reach his side.
Her electric it did slowly crawl,
Blocked was her way;
And when she had to finally stop,
I softly heard her say:

CHORUS.

Let's build the subway now! Let's build the subway now!
My sweetie is ill, but I sit like a pill,
And here will I sit till they bury poor Bill;
There are millions of motors around me, mayhap,
And ten silly Fords climbing right in my lap;
But it's no good to whomp, for I'm stuck in the Loop.
LET'S BUILD THE SUBWAY NOW!

The traffic cops at her did shout,
Her electric they did fear;
To her they said: "None, Lady,
Get thee out of here."
But limousines they barred her path,
And likewise her retreat;
And as the tears flowed down her face,
These words she did repeat:

CHORUS.

Let's build the subway now! Let's build the subway now!
My sweetie is ill, but I sit like a pill,
And here will I sit till they bury poor Bill;
There are millions of motors around me, mayhap,

WHY LIMIT A SUBWAY TO CLARK STREET?

Chicago, March 21.—Looking out from the lobby of a hotel at Clark and Van Buren streets from 5:10 to 5:40 March 21 I saw forty-eight cars pass south bound, or at the rate of one car every thirty-seven seconds. This would seem to be about the limit of traffic and would probably not be possible if a great many of the cars had not been coupled up in trains. This takes no account of west side cars which double back on Clark street, of which I believe there is an instance or two.

This particular nuisance could be gotten rid of by the construction of a tunnel from the mouth of the La Salle street tunnel to a point between Harrison and Polk streets, or perhaps a block farther south, about one mile. The cost, according to the best estimates I have seen of the cost of a two track tunnel under the conditions prevailing here, would be between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000—one-half the amount which the surface lines are obliged, under their franchise, to apply to the building of subway. It would seem to be well within the bounds of engineering skill to complete this work within a working season of eight months. Moreover, it has been found possible in New York to conduct such work without interrupting the flow of traffic.

T. W. BROWN.

A COMMUTER'S PLAIN.

Chicago, March 20.—As I understand the transportation act as interpreted by the Interstate commerce commission when you buy a ticket on a common carrier that ticket entitles you to a seat. Should you not get a seat you do not have to surrender your ticket.

Take the Rock Island road for example. It is not once a week that all passengers are able to get seats. A large number of employees live out of the city, account of not having to pay fare, and when they get on the train is only partly filled. But by the time the train reaches Gresham or Auburn Park there is hardly standing room. And as usual the paid customers stand and the deadheads sit. At night it is a little better, for the cash customers have an equal chance with deadheads. Maybe a lot of cash customers enjoy standing. I don't. I am sure that a few cash customers refused to pay their fare till they were seated there would be better service given.

NO LIMIT ON IMMIGRATION.

Chicago, March 18.—To start out with, I am a 100 per cent American, born and raised in dear old Chicago of American citizens.

Next, in this morning's W. G. N. "An American" writes: "Stop immigration entirely." Where does he get that stuff? Does he not realize that that was done some years back he would still be across the water with the rest of the "knockers?"

If immigration were stopped here Americans would most likely not be permitted to live in other countries. Let us work to elevate our foreign born brothers and sisters and make better Americans of them.

"SURFACE CAR HYGIENE."

Chicago, March 24.—I read with interest the article by C. E. R. under date of March 19 regarding "Surface Car Hygiene."

He hasn't said "the half of it." I've nessed one case where a motorist who owned a half pint of tobacco juice at the car door, and part of it landed on the handle beside the door. At the next stop a lady grasped that same handle and a white gloved hand. Nice thought! I wonder how says:

FROM the story-tellers of ancient Greece and India down to now, always fiction has been one of the vehicles of truth. Fiction is not opposed to fact, but should be an interpretation of the meaning of fact. It is for thoughtful men to seize upon this great means of expression and mould it to the highest purposes of civilization. Those who succeed in doing this are genuine servants of humanity.

Dr. Faunce's estimate of the potential power of fiction, in his letter of February 21, 1922, to the editor, has defined the efforts of the publisher of THE RED BOOK MAGAZINE, which have ever been to "mould this great means of expression to the highest purposes of civilization." CO-OPERATION OF FIRE FORCES IN CITY IS LACKING

Blamed for Recent Low Water Pressure.

Absence of cooperation between the fire department and the city pumping stations at the recent disastrous fire was disclosed yesterday in testimony of City Engineer Alexander Murdoch before the joint aldermanic committees investigating the conflagration.

ALEXANDER MURDOCK

"I was not notified that there was a fire," Mr. Murdoch said. "I did not know of it until the next morning. I was not asked to increase the water pressure at any time."

Cooperation a Chance Matter.
"At the Harrison street pumping station extra pumps were put to work when the men at the station saw fire apparatus hurrying through the neighborhood and realized that there was a big fire somewhere in the downtown district. That degree of cooperation, however, was only a matter of chance," according to Ald. Edward R. Armistead, chairman of the joint investigating committee. It was the duty of First Assistant Chief Buckley, who was in charge at the fire, to notify Mr. Murdoch, so that all available pumps could be put in operation.

Mr. Murdoch contradicted statements that firemen were obliged to stretch hose for 1,700 feet to the vicinity of the blaze because mains and hydrants had been put out of commission through construction work on the Union depot project.

42 Hydrants in Commission.
"I have made a survey of the district and find that there were forty-two hydrants in commission within 1,000 feet of the fire," Mr. Murdoch said.

Another attack on Business Manager John F. Cullerton, who will be summoned as a witness probably on Thursday, was made at yesterday's session by Ald. Arthur F. Albert.

"Cullerton has usurped the powers of the chief," Albert declared. "Moral is bound to fail when a man appointed by law to a minor office assumes an authority that is not his by law and issues orders promiscuously."

Ald. William R. O'Toole announced that he will ask the city council tomorrow to order the bureau of fire prevention to make a survey of the downtown district and report all fire hazards to the city council.

"And if we do not have the power to correct these hazards we should go to the legislature and get it," Ald. O'Toole said.
State Fire Marshal John G. Gamber attended yesterday's session and offered to sit as part of the investigating committee if it appears that witnesses are not making frank statements. If his offer is accepted witnesses may be sworn and punished for false testimony.

SUTHERLAND O. K. ON BONUS BILL; TO SPEED IT UP

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(Special.)—Approval of the soldiers' bonus bill as passed by the house was expressed today by Senator Sutherland (W. Va.), a Republican member of the senate finance committee. He said he believed the objections to the bill were exaggerated.

"I believe that the finance committee will approve a soldiers' bonus bill," he added. "I am inclined to favor the bill as passed by the house. I believe it has a number of good features and that some of the criticisms made against it are not warranted."

The finance committee has given no consideration to the bonus bill. Members of the committee declare they do not intend to delay the measure and will take it up as soon as the tariff bill is reported to the senate.

Thus far Senator Smoot (Utah) is the only Republican member of the senate finance committee who has openly criticized the house measure. He will press a sales tax amendment.

Senator McCumber (N. D.), committee chairman, intends to offer some minor amendments to the bill, among which will be one eliminating the limitation of six months which is placed on the time in which the veterans may apply for adjusted compensations. He believes no limit should be fixed.

Iowa's Model Baby— Virginia Lou

It is no small honor to be selected from thousands of contestants as the finest, healthiest, most perfect baby in the whole state of Iowa. Virginia Lou Innes won the coveted honor, and a prize of $500 besides!

Mrs. Innes attributes her little girl's wonderful health to fresh air and the right food. For Virginia Lou has been fed on Borden's Eagle Brand Milk most of her life.

As Mrs. Innes says: "Better babies" is a thing our country needs. Eagle Brand has been the standard baby food for years. Many other mothers have found, like Mrs. Innes, that Eagle Brand makes strong, robust, vigorous children. Doctors recommend it for weak babies, because it is so easily digested.

Would you experiment with your baby, and give it foods of which you are not certain? Borden's Eagle Brand Milk is the natural food for babies, for it contains nothing but pure milk and pure sugar. It is always uniform and always available at your dealers.

WAR OFFICE TO FIGHT REDUCTION OF CANAL FORCE

BY GRAFTON WILCOX.

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(Special.)—If congress has any idea that the war department will voluntarily reduce the army garrisons in the Hawaiian islands and at the Panama Canal zone, it is doomed to disappointment.

Secretary of War Weeks made this clear today when informed that the house, in striking from the army bill the provision limiting the President's right to determine size of garrisons outside the United States, did so with the understanding that the army proposed to reduce the Hawaiian and Panama garrisons without such a provision.

Not only will the war department refuse to reduce these garrisons but every officer of the army and Secretary Weeks are convinced that the Hawaiian and Panama garrisons should be increased.

Representative Anthony [Kear], in his remarks to the house Friday, said that the eliminated provision would be unnecessary because he had the promise of the war department to make the reductions.

"Spoke Without Authority."

Representative Anthony had no authority to make such a statement, said Secretary Weeks. "I have said repeatedly to the committee in congress and I have said to Mr. Anthony that I, as secretary of war, would not be responsible for what might happen if congress should reduce the garrisons at Hawaii and Panama."

"I consider Hawaii and the Panama Canal zone to be the two most important points for this government to maintain troops. I am not so insistent about the Philippines. The army is convinced there should be more troops in Panama. It is absolutely essential that the canal zone be amply protected at all times."

The secretary indicated that a careful study was now being made of all possible methods of defending the canal from attack. In the immediate future proposed airplane routes from the interior of the United States to

BURNS, SEEKING APPROPRIATION, WARNS OF REDS

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(Special.)—Radicals in the United States, backed by the Russian soviet government, have revolutionized their methods and are working more stealthily, but none the less actively, according to a statement by William J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation, before the house appropriations committee.

Mr. Burns was arguing for an increased appropriation for his bureau. His testimony was revealed today in the publication of the hearings on the state and justice departments appropriation bill.

He blames the Moscow government and the prohibition law.

the canal zone will be considered, he said. Without doubt the airplane will form an important part of the future defense scheme there.

Airplane Routes to the Canal.

It is the intention to lay out air routes from the principal fields within the United States to the canal zone, with appropriate landing fields at proper intervals. Under this plan airplanes would proceed from the United States under their own power in time of emergency. Practice flights will be made from time to time.

Secretary Weeks believes airplanes may also be used to advantage in the defense of the canal.

TERRA COTTA MEN ARE INDICTED BY U. S. GRAND JURY

Seven Firms Named in New Bills.

Indictments charging a conspiracy and a monopoly in restraint of interstate trade and commerce were voted against officers of seven terra cotta companies by the federal grand jury yesterday.

The indictments are the sixth group charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust law voted during the last few weeks. According to United States District Attorney Charles F. Clyde, the action is a continuance of the fight on the part of the government to break up the so-called "building material trust."

The following corporations and officers are named:

American Terra Cotta and Ceramic company, Chicago, W. D. Gates, president; Denver Terra Cotta company, Denver, George P. Fackl, vice president; the Midland Terra Cotta company, Chicago, Hans Mendrus president; Northwestern Terra Cotta company, Chicago, Harry J. Lucas, vice president; St. Louis Terra Cotta company, St. Louis, R. F. Grady, vice president; Western Terra Cotta company, Kansas City, William Timmerman, president; Winkle Terra Cotta company, St. Louis, John G. Hewitt, vice president.

The indictments allege the terra cotta manufacturers serving the state of Illinois and other states failed to compete with each other in their sales. The government further charges that the concerns named are members of the National Terra Cotta society, which manufactures 95 per cent of all the terra cotta used in the country. Other charges are that there was an agreement among members of the society to divide the United States into three territories, and that the manufacturers in these districts agreed to confine sales to their own territory. Evidence was presented to the grand jury by Special Assistant United States Attorney Thomas J. Howe and William Doyle, special agent of the bureau of investigation.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost every one knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

Now you can get yeast the way you want it

For the first time you can get a pure whole yeast in agreeable and convenient tablet form

Of surpassing interest to you thousands of men and women who understand the remarkable health-building properties of yeast is the knowledge that you can now get yeast the way you want it.

Ever since the therapeutic value of yeast was definitely determined by the world's leading scientists, there has been an insistent demand for a pure whole yeast of high vitamin potency:

- that would keep;
- that would be easy and agreeable to take;
- that could be conveniently carried about in the pocket, and, finally;
- that would not form gas nor cause flatulency nor belching.

Why millions will prefer this new yeast

In Yeast Foam Tablets these demands have been met.

No longer need you eat large quantities of yeast in order to get its tonic value, for in this new yeast you have concentration.

No longer need you take so-called "vitamin" preparations mixed with quick acting drugs in order to get temporary effects; for in this new tablet there is nothing but yeast, the richest source of the tonic vitamin; and each lot of Yeast Foam Tablets is tested to insure high, uniform vitamin potency.

Yeast Foam Tablets a food—not a medicine

Yeast has within itself the amazing therapeutic element, vitamin, the corrective properties of which are more astounding than any drug or medicine ever discovered.

If you wish to take drugs or medicines do so on the advice of your physician.

If you wish to take a supplementary food, for its recognized action in toning up the whole body, take pure, whole, concentrated yeast—Yeast Foam Tablets.

They are made by the world's largest manufacturers of dry yeast—the makers for 45 years of the famous baking yeasts, Yeast Foam and Magic Yeast.

What this new yeast does

"Foods which lack vitamin will not maintain health," says a noted medical authority, "and many foods which originally contained this element reach our table with all vitamin eliminated, due to various processes such as refining, preserving, and purifying."

The vitamin thus eliminated is restored through the addition to your regular food of Yeast Foam Tablets.

They stimulate the appetite, aid digestion and enable the body to convert food into firm, healthy tissue.

Without vitamin you can neither eat enough food nor can you get the necessary nourishment from the food you do eat; hence you are often weak, nervous, exhausted and generally run down.

What to take Yeast Foam Tablets for

For that "vague ill health" commonly known as a run-down condition, and all its distressing symptoms such as sluggishness, anaemia, failing strength and endurance, lost appetite and malnutrition you will find nothing more efficacious than a short treatment of Yeast Foam Tablets. They are sold by all druggists.

Extraordinary advantages of Yeast Foam Tablets

The only pure whole yeast in easy-to-take tablet form.

They contain no drugs or other ingredients.

They do not form gas nor cause belching.

They are the only pure whole yeast suitable for children; they do not cause fermentation.

Each lot is tested to insure high and uniform vitamin potency.

FARM BLOC WINS TARIFF BOOSTS FROM SENATORS

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Agricultural interests have been well taken care of in the tariff bill. The measure, as it will be reported to the senate by the senate finance committee within a week, includes many increases in duties on agricultural products over rates in the house bill, although some of them represent reductions from rates of the emergency tariff law. In most cases rates recommended by the farm "bloc" of the senate have been approved.

The new bill provides a duty of 30 cents a bushel on wheat. The duty in the Fordney bill is 25 cents and in the emergency law 35 cents. Wheat flour, smolins and wheat products carry a duty of 70 cents per 100 pounds as against 50 cents in the Fordney bill and 20 per cent ad valorem in the emergency act.

The rate on bran, shorts and other by-products feeds is placed at 10 per cent ad valorem as against 15 per cent in the house bill. Hulls of oats, barley, buckwheat, and other grains are dutiable at 10 cents per 100 pounds as in the house bill.

Flaxseed Duty Higher.

The duty on flaxseed is 40 cents a bushel of 56 pounds, an increase from 20 cents in the house bill and from 30 cents in the emergency law. A compensatory duty of 3 cents a pound has been placed on linseed oil by the finance committee, but it is expected that this will be increased to 3 1/2 cents.

A duty of 15 cents a bushel is placed on rye, an increase of 10 cents in the Fordney bill. Rye flour and meal is assessed 40 cents per 100 pounds, compared with 30 cents in the Fordney bill. The duty on corn is 15 cents a bushel as in the Fordney bill and in the emergency law. Corn meal carries a duty of 30 cents a 100 pounds. Macaroni is assessed 2 cents a pound, compared with 1 1/2 cents in the house bill.

5 Cent Boost in Oats.
The duty on oats is 15 cents a bushel, compared with 10 cents in the house bill. Ground oats are assessed 45 cents a 100 pounds, compared with 32 cents in the house bill. Oatmeal is 90 cents a 100 pounds, as against 60 cents as provided in the house bill.

Fresh milk is assessed 2 1/2 cents a gallon. Condensed or evaporated milk, unsweetened, has a duty of 1 cent a pound; sweetened, 1 1/2 cents a pound.

Butter carries a duty of 8 cents, as in the house bill. Oleomargarine and other substitutes of butter also are assessed 8 cents a pound. Cheese valued at 30 cents a pound is assessed 5 cents a pound, more than 30 cents a pound, 20 per cent ad valorem.

The cattle scheduled in changed from the age standard to weight. Live cattle weighing less than 1,050 pounds are assessed at 1 1/2 cents a pound, and above that at 2 cents a pound.

Duty on fresh beef and a veal is 3 1/2 cents a pound, sheep and goats $2 a head. Fresh mutton, 2 1/2 cents a pound, compared with 1 1/2 cents in the house bill; fresh lamb, 5 cents a pound.

CRIME CARNIVAL IN N. Y. LAID TO EASY GUN SALES

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—One man fleeing the police killed himself, three men were murdered, and four probably fatally shot last night and early today in brawls in different sections of the city. Alleged insults to women were said to have started two fights which ended in the death of two of the three men.

In Mineola, L. I., courthouse today, in a Christmas day manslaughter case, Supreme Court Justice Isaac M. Kaplan urged government control of firearms and of ammunition as the best way to decrease crimes of violence.

"The ease with which the criminally inclined obtain revolvers is the evil to which must be ascribed the prevalence of crimes of violence," the justice declared.

"Pistols and their cartridges are no more a fit commodity for general and indiscriminate purchase than is poison. If pistols are useful and needful in police and army service, let the government alone manufacture and distribute them under suitable registry and control. Within a reasonable period of time crime would substantially disappear."

ROCK SLIDE KILLS THREE.

British Set Up for Egypt Their Own Monroe Doctrine

LONDON, March 27.—[By the Associated Press.]—Marquis Curzon, secretary for foreign affairs, has sent identical dispatches to all British ambassadors, saying that the termination of the British protectorate over Egypt involved no change in Egypt's status as regards the position of other powers in that country. The dispatch says the British government will regard as an unfriendly act any attempt at interference in the affairs of Egypt by another power and will consider any aggression in Egyptian territory as an act to be repelled with all the means at the command of the British government.

Of interest to Want Advertisers:
Watch the wording of your Want Ad! Read below how Mr. O., by re-vamping his Want Ad, sold his automobile. He used The Tribune's Want Ad Slogan:

The more you tell the quicker you sell!

THE TRIBUNE'S WANT AD SLOGAN.

MR. O. wanted to sell his automobile. He was telling prospective car buyers that he had an auto, but he wasn't telling them enough about his offer. Here's his Want Ad:

DODGE—1919 TOURING, REX WINTER top. $425. 000 Michigan.

This Want Ad brought no inquiries. Not a flicker from the populace. Mr. O. was surprised, disappointed, hurt. It was suggested that he try The Tribune's remedy for poor results: "The more you tell, the quicker you sell." He decided to do so. With some misgiving he ran this Want Ad:

DODGE TOURING.

1919 model: Rex winter top, heater, etc. This car carries a 90 day service guarantee; terms to suit your convenience or your old car in trade. $425. 000 Michigan. Call me 000.

This second Ad sold Mr. O.'s car.

Why? Because people who went to the Want Ad Section that day to look over the offerings in automobiles became really interested only in those which were described frankly, openly, fully! Whenever your market, your offer, your price, all justify a quick sale, and your Want Ad does not produce, look to the wording of that Want Ad!

Dissolve one in the mouth now and then, thereby freeing an efficient antiseptic that mixes with the saliva, and continuously bathes the infected membranes, checking germ life. Children like them. The Utmost Concentration in a Vast Area of Retail Sales

THIS IS NOT AN ADVERTISEMENT of New York—which requires little advertising—but it vitally concerns the merchant or the manufacturer who hopes to distribute his wares in the vast wheel of trade of which Greater New York is the hub. It has long been claimed in behalf of THE WORLD, Morning and Sunday, and THE EVENING WORLD, that it comes more nearly to reaching the point of "saturation" in Greater New York than any other daily newspaper of large circulation published in the city. The concentration of its circulation directly within the Metropolitan Retail Shopping Area ranges from 80% on its Sunday issue to nearly 90% on THE MORNING WORLD and THE EVENING WORLD.

In this concentration of sales-influence the advertiser will find his most powerful New York ally, for it is only natural that such general acceptance of a newspaper on the part of the reader should extend in a like ratio to the retail distributors of merchandise.

In a recent searching inquiry conducted among retailers of all lines of merchandise in 73 neighborhood buying centres of Greater New York it was found that

- 60% of the Grocers
- 73% of the Druggists
- 62% of the Clothing Dealers
- 63% of the Hardware Dealers
- 76% of the Electrical Dealers
- 65% of the Furniture Dealers
- 65% of the Automobile Accessory Dealers are regular readers of THE MORNING and SUNDAY WORLD and THE EVENING WORLD. In other words, the advertiser seeking distribution in New York not only purchases in these papers from 80% to 90% efficiency in distribution but he reaches practically 65% of the very retailers through whom he must dispose of his goods.

A merchant setting out to introduce a given commodity in the Dominion of Canada or in the Kingdom of Belgium would have a very much simpler problem if he found upon analysis that he could talk to some 65% of the retailers of either country through a single advertising group. The Metropolitan Retail Area of New York has a population in excess of that of Belgium, and only 60,000 less than that of Canada, yet two-thirds of its retailers can be reached and influenced through the columns of THE WORLD, Morning and Sunday, and THE EVENING WORLD.

The New York market is big enough, broad enough and rich enough to warrant the closest cultivation of the manufacturer, however ambitious his vision. That it happens also to be the most accessible, the most easily and economically merchandised, is due primarily to the completeness with which THE WORLD reaches the two inseparable elements of any advertising success—the retail distributor and the ultimate consumer.

New York is too big a market to cover in a "one-paper campaign," but the service of THE MORNING and SUNDAY WORLD and THE EVENING WORLD offers the most powerful group factor in dominating America's greatest market.

Circulation According to Statement of the Audit Bureau of Circulations for Year Ending September 30, 1921

BY using what is known as the all-day-and-Sunday advertising service comprising the Morning and Sunday editions of THE WORLD and THE EVENING WORLD, the national advertiser availing himself of the 50,000 line contract rate buys his space at the rate of 10.3 cents per line per 100,000 copies.

The nearest approach to this rate in point of economy is offered by a possible all-day-and-Sunday combination of two papers under different ownerships at 13.3 cents per line per 100,000 copies. The nearest rate offered by an all-day-and-Sunday combination under one ownership is 15.3 cents per line per 100,000 copies, or 50% in excess of THE WORLD'S combined rate.

THERE are four Gravure Sections printed by New York newspapers every Sunday. To distribute 100,000 copies of THE SUNDAY WORLD GRAVURE costs the advertiser 32.8 cents per page line.

- In the next paper 39.9 cents
- In the third paper 42.2 cents
- In the fourth paper 42.8 cents

If these figures in themselves were not sufficiently conclusive, it can be pointed out that THE SUNDAY WORLD GRAVURE has 18.4% more circulation directly within New York City than the three other papers combined.

LOANS FINANCE BUILDING OF 368 NEW APARTMENTS

BY AL CHASE.

With the underwriting of nearly $1,500,000 in serial mortgage bond issue loans by two local houses comes the announcement of the construction of buildings containing 368 new apartments.

Greenebaum Sons Investment company reports having negotiated twelve loans, aggregating $1,242,500, nine of which involve the construction of 273 flats. The largest will be seventy-two apartments to be called the Sheridan-Rogers Manor, at 7665-15 Sheridan road, A. L. Himeblau, architect, to be ready in the fall; at 1848-16 and 1700-08 Juneway terrace will be two buildings, forty-three apartments each, Paul F. Olsen, architect; thirty flats at 6924-34 Clyde avenue, twenty-five flats northwest corner Douglas boulevard and Lawndale avenue; stores, offices, and flats southwest corner Milwaukee and Cullum and several others.

Build Opposite Marigold Garden. Cochran & McCluer have made a $190,000 bond issue on the 1200,000 seventy-two flats being built on Bradley place, overlooking Marigold Garden, by Harry C. Cottrell; also a $55,000 loan on the eighteen apartments Paul E. Stern is building at the northeast corner of Rosedale and Glenwood, to cost $105,000, both for fall occupancy.

Arthur B. Shilling bought the 120x173 feet at the southeast corner of Greenleaf and Glenwood from S. P. Korman through William L. Wallen & Sons, for $48,000, and will erect a fifty-three flat building, with shops, on Glenwood. Paul F. Olsen is architect.

Will Discuss Height Limit. Charles M. Nichols, chairman of the zoning committee of the Chicago real estate board, has sent out an invitation to members of civil bodies, city officials, architects, engineers, builders, etc., to meet at 2 p. m. today at the realty board rooms and discuss the question, "What should be the height limit of buildings in the downtown district?"

Bernhard Stenge and Harry O. Johnson have purchased from Nels B. Johnson the vacant 49x123 at 5409-11 North Clark street, for a reported $26,000, through Schoenlank & Kirschner, and will at once improve with a row of stone front stores, to be ready about May 1. Schoenlank & Kirschner will be managers.

Walter Wiebe paid a reported $100,000 cash to Henry M. Underwood of Waukegan for the thirty apartments at the southeast corner of Stewart avenue and 73d street. Robert E. Barbee was broker.

Wm. L. Harkness Estate $151,599,210 by Appraisal

New York, March 27.—A net estate of $151,599,210, the bulk of which was industrial, railroad, and public utility stock, was left by William L. Harkness, Standard Oil company official, who died May 10, 1919, the appraisal in the state tax commission office showed today. He held Standard Oil stock amounting to $12,554,050.

ASSISTANT JAILER RESIGNS FROM JOB FOR BUSINESS LIFE

Assistant Jailer Peter C. Lawrence yesterday handed in his resignation to Sheriff Charles W. Peters. He will start business for himself.

Warden Wesley Westbrook has a promoted Hans Thompson, formerly a jail guard, to the vacant position. Warden Westbrook declared they had nothing to say in regard to the resignation except that it had come voluntarily from Lawrence.

Mr. Lawrence had been connected with the jail for nearly four years. He was jailer at the time of the escape of Tommy O'Connor, after which he was replaced by Warden Westbrook, former captain of the Austin police station.

BEGIN HEARING OF ARMOUR CASE IN KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Mo., March 27.—Hearing of charges brought by the Kansas City live stock exchange against Armour & Co., in connection with the operation of the Mistletoe stockyards here, got under way today. The case is the first brought under the federal packer-stockyards control act of 1921.

Hearings are before Judge B. M. Hainer, commissioner of the federal department of agriculture. He assured the litigants that he had no prejudices in the issue, which was obviously of "vast public importance."

Hogs are bought by the Fowler Packing company at the Mistletoe yards here direct from the producers. The Fowler company is owned by the Armour Packing company. It is the contention of the plaintiffs that the operation of the Mistletoe yards tends to depress the price of hogs on the open market at Kansas City, that the prices paid at the Mistletoe yard are arbitrarily fixed and interfere with an open and competitive market and constitute an effort by the Armour company to control hog prices paid here.

J. Ogden Armour, president of the defendant company, did not attend the hearing. The company's counsel, in the opening statement, denied the charges, asserted that the Mistletoe yards are private, not public stockyards under the 1921 federal law, and that the real motive of the Kansas City live stock exchange is to prevent any direct buying of live stock from producers and force all producers to pay commission to commission firms.

Hold Joliet Student at U. of M. as Bootlegger

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 27.—[Special.]—Jack Fairbairn of Joliet, Ill., a sophomore student in the literary college of the University of Michigan, is being held in $1,500 bail for the next term of the circuit court, charged with violation of the prohibition law. The youth has confessed, according to the officers, selling alcoholic beverages of all kinds which he said came from Canada.

Gordon Duffield, 17, Heir to Fortune, Will Go to Work

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Although he is heir to an estate variously valued from the thousands to $1,000,000, Gordon Duffield, 17, will be permitted to leave school and go to work, his mother, Mrs. Graham Duffield, announced today before leaving for Chicago. She came here to find her son, who had been playing "hooky" from school for five months. Gordon finally visited his mother Saturday night.

THE CHICAGO TERRITORY

FIGHTING SALESMANSHIP

can win sales in The Chicago Territory in 1922 as it did in 1921

This is the story of how a fighter wrung golden profits from The Chicago Territory in 1921.

AN EASTERN manufacturer in a highly competitive and hard hit field was spending upwards of $100,000 in nation-wide advertising last year. Things were not going well.

He decided to concentrate his attack on the one best market for his product. The Chicago Territory was selected as that market even though he did not have a single dealer in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

He decided to concentrate his entire advertising appropriation in the one best medium in the market he had chosen to conquer. So he contracted for a page a week in The Chicago Sunday Tribune with its more than 800,000 circulation.

It was midsummer before he started, but he has already sold approximately $600,000 worth of his product in this market at an expense for selling and advertising below 12%. He has built up an organization of about 400 gilt-edged dealers. He has overwhelmed many old established competitors in this market by his great volume of advertising concentrated in one medium in one zone.

Fighting Salesmanship can win sales in The Chicago Territory in 1922 as it did in 1921

THESE are not boom times in The Chicago Territory. But they are better than 1921. It is probable that more money is being spent right now by consumers in The Chicago Territory than was ever before spent by any similar group in the history of the world with the exception of the years 1918, 1919 and 1920.

The Chicago Territory had 23% of all the motor vehicles in the United States in 1920, yet all those junked in 1921 were replaced and the total 1921 registration showed a net gain of 296,633. Hard times? Hardly.

Advertising of local merchants in The Chicago Tribune during 1921 decreased less than one per cent in volume as compared with 1920—which had broken all previous records. And 1922 is better than 1921. There is business for fighters in The Chicago Territory in 1922.

The Chicago Tribune has more than thirty men trained not only in advertising, but also in merchandising—in the actual direction of sales campaigns in The Chicago Territory—men who know from repeated contact with jobbers and dealers in many lines what can be done, and how to do it.

One of these men will call on request to discuss the possibilities for developing the 1922 sale of your products in your rich home market—The Chicago Territory.

Fabric Fashion Show in Full Swing

THE interesting displays bordering the outer aisles of the Second Floor, State Street, would reach the length of a city block. The combined message of these displays is directed to the large majority of women who do their own sewing or are interested in the problems of sewing.

Of immeasurable inspiration in connection with displays of Spring Fabrics are the hooks, placed at convenient intervals, containing nearly life-size colored plates of the most advanced pattern designs. These offer suggestions of fabrics as well as styles, demonstrating clearly meanwhile how simplified home sewing has become.

THE VENGEANCE OF HENRY JARROMAN BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.
Henry Jarroman, released from prison, to which he was sentenced twenty years before for the murder of Charles Eddis, learns that John Camden, his one time friend, who he believes stole his wife, killed Eddis, and fastened the crime on him, is dead. His embittered heart bids him make Camden's daughter a victim.
The girl believes her name to be Nadia Quest. She is employed as a typist by the Hon. Wilfred Stranack, who asks her to marry him.
Claudine Crayne, Jarroman's wife, who deserted him and their child, is the proprietor of a gambling house. There, his rascally solicitor, tells her Jarroman wants to find his daughter. They conspire to substitute Nadia to get his fortune. Jarroman recognizes Claudine's ring which she wears, knows who she is, and rejoices his victim has been given to him.
Nadia marries Stranack. Jarroman's detective tells him she is Camden's daughter and that he has found his own daughter, Nell, living in the slums. Jarroman instructs her to start proceedings against Nadia to recover the property he has given her. The detective, reports he finds Camden as innocent of the crime as Jarroman. Lady Doucester, Wilfred's mother, tells Nadia she is Camden's daughter and begs her not to return Jarroman's money for the sake of Wilfred's career. She consents, but Stranack begins to sense a change in her. Mr. X, Claudine's assistant, tells Jarroman she is Eddis' wife, and it was she who killed him. Wilfred learns who Nadia is, and is furious because he thinks she has taken for selfish motives the fortune which belongs to Nell, he leaves her.
Lady Doucester, to heal the breach, confesses to Wilfred that she and his father took Camden's fortune years before, and that it was she who blackmailed Nadia into keeping Jarroman's money. She then tells Theed, "I know who killed Eddis and I know who helped her." Jarroman introduces Claudine to Nell as "an old friend of mine." The girl refuses to take money from him.

INSTALLMENT LXXIII. CLAUDINE DECIDES TO TRAVEL.

"As for our poor Jarroman, his words to me have made a cruel wound which no amount of time will heal. Once he was generous enough to admit that it was I who had turned him from a poor man into a rich one. This afternoon he chose to break the bonds of what I had fondly regarded as a lifelong friendship. I can only hope there will not be added to his other sorrows that of remorse for the way in which he has treated his old friend. There came a gasping laugh from Lady Doucester as she retreated to the library again, and the sound of the door closing upon the solicitor.

"Exit Theed," said Jarroman.
With the departure of Theed a rush of strength came to Jarroman. He turned to Claudine. She was watching him, and he could not fathom her thoughts.
"That means my property is my own again," he said briskly. "I must go downstairs. There is so much to be arranged."

"You said," she reminded him with a ghost of a smile, "that you had no plans."

He hesitated, then plunged into a frankness which he did not expect her to reciprocate.
"The truth is simple, Claudine. Here am I, trying to force a splintered sword to a sound weapon again. How many of the pieces I can use, I don't know. There is one," he gestured towards Nell's closed door—"that I have lost forever. If you had felt inclined towards any effort in that direction—but you don't, and I, as you heard her say, am useless. So that piece of the sword is done with. I may be able to make some little amends, but the big penalty I cannot pay; I am forging my new sword too late."

What other splinters are there?
"Nadia," he strove to speak naturally. "I have put her and her husband in a position they cannot tolerate. I must go to her. And then there is yourself. You—"

"Yes, I—?"
"I will speak brutally, Claudine. I do not believe that you, as an individual, exist. I believe you are a series of poses. You took on the pose of a spontaneous, eager lover, and you married me; you took the pose of a caged and misunderstood wife, and you were unfaithful to me; you took on the pose of a fascinating adventuress, and you deserted your child and made money and worked for Theed, and tried to get hold of Nadia when she and I were at Brighton. And now you are posing again. Somehow you have got hold of the pose of a clever, interesting brain worker, and you want me to provide a setting for it."

"Yes, I—?"
She had risen, the color burning hotly in her cheeks, her eyes changing from gray to green as the angry pride scorched her. He waited for an outburst, but none came.

"I don't say I won't provide that setting," Jarroman went on, "but I do say that the partnership you offered me when I left your house yesterday is a partnership in a pose. And I—am forging a sword. I'll weld your pose in, for so much claim you have upon me. But, morally, I will do no more for you. I will not accept you as anything but a pose, ever again."

She was controlling her fury by a terrible effort. He could not but admire it.
"You will think it over and let me know what you decide to do?" he asked more gently.

"No," she struggled to speak calmly. "No, I am not dependent on you. Think what you like of me, and go your own way. I have money, I am—pose—alone." Her laughter was shrill. "Or I can stay here."

"Why did you come here?"
"Lady Doucester asked me. She offered to help me back into a place in decent society; and she can do it. She has prestige, she leads in many circles. She doesn't scorn me, as you do—"

Jarroman turned away. Words were wasted here. But involuntarily he glanced again at Nell's closed door. Lady Doucester was a clever woman! First the daughter, now the mother—

There was a rustle, a faint and wonderful scent of iris, and Claudine was gone down the corridor. As her door shut behind her, Jarroman went downstairs.

Lady Doucester came out of the library as he descended to the hall.
"I heard Theed go," he said. "I congratulate you, and thank you. And now I wonder whether you will do something else for me?"

"What is it?"
"Will you lend my daughter a car to go home in? It's the only thing she wants."

Lady Doucester rang and gave the necessary orders. There was a subdued radiance about her that Jarroman misinterpreted.
"I believe you led that child to her conclusion," he said, watching her critically—"that it's a nuisance to have a wealthy father. That's why you asked her here."

"Touché," said Lady Doucester. "But there was no leading about it. She is an intelligent enough girl. I just had her here and was as pleasant to her as I could be—if I hadn't been pleasant you know perfectly well that she'd have told you her opinion of me, with her reasons for it. They're like children and dogs. You can tell at once who's been kind to them. I've been kind to her. I like her and I think she likes me."

"I see. And now you are trying to clear the coast in another department," Lady Doucester smiled.

"You mean your wife? Yes, you're quite right. You don't mind plain speaking, as I know to my cost, so I will confess that I intend your wife to get as bored with respectability as your daughter did with wealth."

"I wonder if you will succeed."

"I've got to succeed," said Lady Doucester grimly, "for, as it turns out, I can't give your wife what I promised her, and she must be edged out of this house before she discovers that I can't!" She examined her longnetted with care. "You see, should Wilfred and Nadia absolutely refuse to let you reassess those settlements to them, my husband and I will have to repay Nadia her thirty thousand pounds. That means the end of us socially."

Jarroman said nothing.
"But in every other way," concluded Lady Doucester in a flash of penetration, "the beginning of us."

"Here comes Nell," remarked Jarroman.
"And here's Wilfred!" exclaimed Lady Doucester as she glimpsed her son mounting the steps.

At that moment the car drew up, and at sound of it Lord Doucester emerged from the library also. So it happened that by the time Nell reached the hall a little group awaited her.

"I shall miss you, Nell," said Lady Doucester, with a sincerity that made Nell grip her hand until the rings cut into her fingers. "Rawson, put Miss Jarroman's things on the car."

Rawson obeyed and Nell finished her farewells, including in them Wilfred, who had not the faintest idea of her identity. Then she strode to the door.

2 ARRESTED FOR BLACKMAIL PLOT AGAINST RAKLIOS

"Exposure" Threat Fails to Net $10,000.

(Pictures on back page.)
Attempted blackmail of John "Raklios," head of the restaurant firm of the same name, last night resulted in the arrest of two men.

Some months ago Mr. Raklios returned from a trip to New York City. He received a telephone call.
"We know all about you," a voice said. "We know all about that other woman. Pay us $10,000, or we'll tell your wife."

Threat Is Repeated.
Mr. Raklios hung up the receiver while the other was still talking. A few days later the call was repeated.

"Exposure sure—if you don't come across!" he was warned.
Mr. Raklios told Mrs. Raklios all about the affair and then employed W. C. Dannenberg, a private detective.

Ten days ago Mrs. Raklios received a telephone call.
"Your husband is going out with another woman. We're going to tell the newspapers and create an awful scandal unless we get some money," she was told. She repeated the conversation to her husband.

Mrs. Raklios Arrested.
Saturday two men accosted her as she left her home for a walk.

"We're the men who called you up," one said. "We're sure going to tell the newspapers unless you pay us to keep quiet. We've got the address of the other woman and everything."

Dannenberg was in the Raklios home. Mrs. Raklios took the two men there and argued with them for half an hour. She had only a few dollars more than $20 in the house. They promised her that they would come back Monday for the money she told them she would get.

Gives Marked Money.
Yesterday they appeared. The money—$50 in $1 bills, all marked—was turned over. Then Lieut. Axel Jensen and Sgt. John Hardy walked into the room.

The two men put up a battle, but were subdued. They are Albert Vernon, 4030 North Clark street, a former special policeman in the stockyards, and John H. Sullivan of 4219 Calumet avenue. Both are locked up.

MAYOR TO NAME PHILIP S. GRAVER ON SCHOOL BOARD

Mayor Thompson has decided to appoint a former football player to the board of education, according to reports current at the city hall.

Philip S. Graver, 10338 Seelye avenue, vice president of the Graver corporation, steel tank manufacturers at 4809 Todd avenue, East Chicago, Ind., is the mayor's choice, it is said. Mr. Graver is married and has two children. He comes from the Beverly hill section of the Thirty-second ward and is a close friend of Dr. William H. Reid, commissioner of public works.

Mr. Graver was a member of the Chicago Athletic association champion football teams of 1896 and 1898 when Mayor Thompson was its captain. He was also noted as an amateur indoor baseball player and bicycle racer twenty years ago.

The mayor is expected to appoint Mr. Graver when the term of Jacob M. Loeb expires, April 29.

PICK JURY TO HEAR CASE OF MONT TENNES

Selection of a jury to hear the case of Mont Tennessee, widely known gambler, charged with conspiracy in the operation of bookmaking and horse racing gambling, was begun yesterday before Judge Timothy D. Hurley. Tennessee, who maintains offices at 431 South State street, was arrested on Feb. 16, 1921, with his aides, John Morelock, Abe Cooper, and H. E. Argo, by a raiding party from State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe's offices.

James O'Leary, famous stockyards saloonkeeper and gambler, arrested by the same party during last year's cleanup of gambling resorts, was found guilty Saturday of keeping a gambling house and was fined $100 by a jury in Judge Hurley's court.

Husband and Police Foil Woman's Suicide Attempts

Mrs. Emily Stachowski, 52 wife of the president of K. Stachowski & Co., jewelers, twice attempted to kill herself by inhaling gas yesterday at her home, 1115 Noble street. She was saved the first time by her husband and the second by police.

JUDGE CANCELS ANOTHER'S BOND.
Judge William R. Foster in South Clark street court yesterday ordered canceled the $1,000 bond of William H. Radtka, alleged pickpocket, and had him placed in a cell. The bond had been approved by Judge Holmes and was found defective because no property was scheduled.

Mother of Three Children
Asks Divorce from Broker

Mrs. Sarah N. Sawyer, 2942 Longwood drive, yesterday filed suit for divorce in the Superior court against Frederick C. Sawyer, former Chicago broker, now residing in Los Angeles. She charged desertion and nonsupport. There are three children.

Members of "The Nightcap" company celebrated the melodrama's first anniversary at the Congress hotel last evening. The play opened in Baltimore a year ago and has been seen since in Washington, New York, Boston, Detroit, and Chicago.

TEDIOUS PASTIME—WAITING FOR THE CURTAIN TO GO UP

HYLAN DENIES HE'S CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENCY

Suggests Thompson as Likely Timber.

John F. Hyland, mayor of New York, will not be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1924, he said last night during an interview.

"The rumor that I shall be a candidate for the presidential nomination is just that—a rumor—and nothing more," said Mayor Hyland, who, with Mrs. Hyland, will return to New York on the Twentieth Century today, following a three days' visit to Chicago.

"Hired for Four Years."
"The people of New York elected me mayor. That means I am hired for four years. I am going to live up to my contract. It follows that I shall not be in the next presidential running."

This statement set at rest reports that have been current since Commissioner Grover A. Whalen of Mayor Hyland's cabinet, speaking at Palm Beach recently, suggested his chief as likely presidential timber.

In this disposing of the "Hyland boom," New York's mayor added another name to the list of "likely candidates" to which he referred in his address to the Knights of Columbus Sunday night—Hiram Johnson, William Randolph Hearst, and Rodman W. Vanaman. The fourth name is William Hale Thompson.

May Build New Pier.
A recreation pier at Coney island may result from Mayor Hyland's visit.

"We have been considering a proposal to erect a pier at the foot of Ocean boulevard," said the mayor, following an inspection of the Municipal pier here. "It probably would not be so pretentious as Chicago's. It would have no freight handling facilities, being for recreation purposes only. Our pier project is in the embryo state; it has merely been considered."

The visiting mayor and Mrs. Hyland were luncheon guests of Mayor Thompson at the South Shore Country club yesterday. In the evening they were entertained at dinner by Archbishop Mundelein, later attending a theater. Earlier in the day they had been escorted through the Union stockyards by Alden B. Swift.

Miss Pauline Frederick and A. H. Woods came from opposite ends of the continent to meet in Chicago yesterday and sign the papers which provide for Miss Frederick's return to the stage after eight years' absence in the movies. London is the immediate center of the transaction; Miss Frederick will appear there not later than May 5, probably in Somerset Maugham's new comedy, "East of Suez."

Miss Grace George has taken for use in this country a comic play, called "Me and My Diary," which is, in content, an open fling at Mrs. "Margot" Asquith in her aspect as an autobiographer. Miss Gertrude Jennings, a well known English playwright, wrote the skit and it has been acted in London with some success by Miss Ella Jeffreys, who played in Chicago with William H. Crane about fifteen years ago.

The 'Rounders' Again; News of the Players

BY SHEPPARD BUTLER.

EDDIE CANTOR'S "Midnight Rounders" are at the Apollo again, minus Mr. Cantor and most of the enterprising players who accompanied him into the loop last fall. The scenery and costumes are still there, however, and, with a few of the former players, a good many new ones, the piece provides two and a half hours of sufficient amiable vaudeville.

Miss Jane Green remains in the cast, submitting lively synopses of her own and the Misses Jean Carroll and Alice Riddance dance as before, now demurely and now with wild abandon. The newcomers include Harry Hines, a confident cutup, who speaks Cantor's lines in some of the travesties. Sam Hearn, succeeding Lew, the other Hearn, and so like him, you hardly know the difference; Miss Helen Eley, red haired and golden voiced, and Irving O'Flynn, a bland and indefatigable master of ceremonies.

The proceedings are interrupted at one point by Miss Lora Hoffman, a pleasantly austere soprano, and there are times by Mr. Deiro, who plays the accordion as Edwin Booth might have played it.

This is the last week of vaudeville at the Apollo. Next Sunday McIntyre and Heath in "Red Pepper."

London is the immediate center of the transaction; Miss Frederick will appear there not later than May 5, probably in Somerset Maugham's new comedy, "East of Suez."

Miss Grace George has taken for use in this country a comic play, called "Me and My Diary," which is, in content, an open fling at Mrs. "Margot" Asquith in her aspect as an autobiographer. Miss Gertrude Jennings, a well known English playwright, wrote the skit and it has been acted in London with some success by Miss Ella Jeffreys, who played in Chicago with William H. Crane about fifteen years ago.

Members of "The Nightcap" company celebrated the melodrama's first anniversary at the Congress hotel last evening. The play opened in Baltimore a year ago and has been seen since in Washington, New York, Boston, Detroit, and Chicago.

PREDICTS 10,000 VACANT FLATS BY FIRST OF JUNE

"Rents Prohibitive"— Tenants' Secretary.

"For Rent" signs decorate windows and doors in apartments in the Hyde Park and Lake View neighborhoods in considerable quantity. In other neighborhoods these signs may be looked for, but not so readily found.

M. S. Walsh, secretary of the Tenants' League of Chicago, 112 North La Salle street, gave his reason for it. "There are easily 5,000 vacant flats at present," he said. "Prices are too high. Landlords are asking anywhere from $75 to $250 a month for them, and people can't pay. Try to get a flat where you'd like to live for $50. You can't do it."

More Empty by June 1.
By June 1, Walsh predicted, the 5,000 will be doubled. Tenants, with a debating fight or not, are going to close the door, and if I am on a street car or train and the lights go out while going through a tunnel I almost have a spasm."

A prominent real estate dealer, affiliated with the Chicago real estate board, partly agreed and partly disagreed with the tenants' league official.

"I think Walsh put the number of vacant apartments too low," he said. "There are probably more than 5,000, though I have no actual figures. But there will be fewer by June 1, rather than more, as he says."

The real estate man echoed Walsh's sentiment that the man who could afford only $50 a month for rent was "up against it." He said that the most expensive apartments would be the first to suffer from unoccupancy and the first to come down in price.

One Man Praises Landlord.
Fred W. Scarff, a manufacturer, at 350 North Clark street, declares he's found a landlord who "ought to have his pores painted and hung in the hall of fame."

"A month ago," he said, "I agreed to rent an apartment which was unfinished. I sent the May rent, nevertheless. Yesterday the manager of the building called me up with 'bad news.' The bad news was a refund of $10 on account of the reduction in the rent of the apartment."

Lake and Rivers Will Be Stocked with Game Fish

State Game Warden William Stratton and Thomas McCarthy, fish culturist, will stock Lake Michigan near Waukegan with game fish this week. Lake trout fingerlings, numbering 6,000,000 and 200,000 silver scaled Kennerly salmon will be released into the lake.

The fish were hatched at the state hatchery at Spring Grove. Within a few days 20,000,000 wall eyed pike, 5,000,000 pickerel, 800,000 bass, and 100,000 rainbow trout will be placed in the lakes and rivers of Illinois.

216 PAY FEE FOR OSTEOPATH QUIZ; ONLY 18 TAKE IT

Situation Puzzle to State Examiners.

About two months ago approximately 216 prospective osteopaths had filed their names at Springfield and paid the necessary fee which would permit them to take the state examinations which began yesterday in the county building. Yesterday nineteen appeared in the examination room and one of these walked out immediately after the questions were read, giving as his reason simply that he had "concluded not to take this exam."

About seventy-five students appeared to take the regular medical examination, as against more than 100 at the fall examinations.

Examiner Is Puzzled.
What was the reason for the failure of the osteopathic candidates to appear? Dr. L. C. Taylor, secretary of the examining board, declared that about seventy of the candidates were those who failed in certain subjects at the previous examination, and that there would be more at the examination today when these special subjects came up. He was at a loss, however, to explain why more than 100 of the candidates had failed to show.

V. C. Michel, director of registration, suggested that probably the arbitrary ruling of Director W. H. H. Miller requiring applicants to have a high school education was responsible for the decrease in number of candidates. The medical practice act of 1917 which required certain educational requirements for "other practitioners" excepted chiropractors, etc.—who had been unconstitutional by the Supreme court last summer, thus enabling any one to obtain a license who could pass the tests. Director Miller's ruling on this point, which no doubt must have the approval of the osteopathic associations, was made after students without number were granted licenses irrespective of the lack of necessary credentials.

Record of Six Students.
Three students were expelled from the Chicago College of Osteopathy for taking the examinations last fall and obtaining their licenses before they had received their diplomas. One other was refused readmission to the school to complete his course and two others made no effort to return. All six of these students took the special "sure shot" courses at quiz schools. One of them had completed only two years of a five years' course, during which he received only the theoretical side and practically none of the practical side of the profession. One of these students is said to have remarked "he could take a blacksmith and get him an osteopath's license and only six weeks at a quiz school."

"Stuff Was Off."
But the quiz school classes for the present examination were larger than ever. As in previous examinations, a large number of them had been "guaranteed their license" for a certain fee. But, following the launching of the investigation by State's Attorney Crowe, the word went out that the "stuff was off."

Mr. Michel was placed in charge of the examination, and each member of the medical board of five examiners was made personally responsible for the questions prepared by him. Some of the questions already had been prepared and sent to Springfield, but new sets were drafted and kept in possession of the physicians themselves. In some instances as many as three sets had been prepared. The five members of the board carried their questions to the examination rooms yesterday sealed. Possibly these facts had something to do with the failure of some 100 candidates to attend.

Miller Calls Meeting.
Although it had been announced that Mr. Michel would be in charge of the examination, Director Miller suddenly appeared in Chicago Sunday and called a meeting of the medical board consisting of Dr. J. Rawson Pennington, Chicago, president; Dr. L. C. Taylor, Springfield, secretary; Dr. E. L. Damron, Effingham; Dr. H. H. Hearn, Quincy; and Dr. Gilbert Fitzpatrick, Chicago. Dr. W. L. Noble and Dr. W. A. Evans, members of the committee appointed by Gov. Brady to investigate alleged irregularities in the department of registration and education, also were invited to attend. Mr. Michel was present, as well as Dr. Charles J. Humiston, Dr. H. H. Hearn, and Dr. H. H. Hearn, who was tendered, but refused to accept a place on the investigating committee. A full discussion was had at the meeting relative to taking steps to Toledo, O., March 27.—Four changes took place in the standings of the American Bowling Congress tournament today, but none of the competitors reached first place in any.

A. Fitcher and K. Spitznagel of Tulsa, Okla., bowled into third place in the two men division with 1,307; J. Cedar of Cleveland found ninth place in the singles with 673, and W. Driver of Louisville added enough to his five man string to give him a total of 1,336 for nine games and third place in the all events.

The Paragon Refining Co. of Toledo dropped into fourth place in the men event with 2,935, dislodging the Koors No. 29 of Dayton, O.

Leathe Furniture Co. of Aurora, Ill., rolled 2,707, which ought to get them some money.

Morgan Asked to Resign.

Herman Morgan of Cincinnati, president of the Central States Bowling association, who contained the Buckeye Syrup team of Cincinnati when it rolled 2,837 in the five man event on March 9, but whose score has been ordered thrown out of the records because of the use by the team of an ineligible player, has been asked to resign, John Klingman, vice president of the C. S. B. A., announced today.

Al Langtry, secretary of the A. B. C., indicated today that the team may be expelled from the congress.

I Will Not Quit—Morgan.

Cincinnati, O., March 27.—Herman Morgan said today that he had no intention of resigning as president of the Central States Bowling association. "I am preparing an affidavit," he said, "which I will send to Secretary Langtry of the American Bowling congress and as it will explain the entire situation I feel confident it will be considered of any intentional wrongdoing."

Dreyer, he said, was unable to accompany the team to Toledo.

DAVE SHADE FLATTENS PINKIE IN FOUR ROUNDS

Milwaukee, Wis., March 27.—(Special.)—A lightning bolt came out of the west tonight and knocked out Pinky Mitchell in the fourth round.

Dave Shade, who held Jack Britton to a fifteen round draw in New York, stopped the local boy for the first time in his career. A chopping right to the jaw, followed by a left hook, sprawled Pinkie on the canvas. He sat up and swung around at the count of five to face his opponent. He jumped to his feet at ten, but Referee Houlehan sent him to his corner, stating that he had got up too late.

The Mitchell set up a yelp, but the ruling stood. Up to the knockout the fight was all Shade's. He snapped a fast left to the Mitchell jaw repeatedly and Pinkie was unable to locate the fast moving target successfully.

TATE FLOORS SAM; WINS DECISION

Memphis, Tenn., March 27.—(Special.)—Bill Tate, colored heavyweight champion, put Sam Langford to the floor for the count of nine with a right to the chin in the first round tonight and then beat Langford for seven other rounds with his left hand. He was awarded the decision.

Tate complained after the first round that his right hand hurt him. After the fight a physician examined it and announced there was a broken bone.

Langford fought honestly but in vain. He couldn't reach Tate's towering face, and seldom got through Tate's guard to reach the body.

KILONIS-TALABER TO MIX AT MEYERS BOUT

John Kilonis, the Greek grappler of Norfolk, Va., and Lou Talaber of the west side yesterday were matched to meet in the semi-windup to the championship match between Johnny Meyers, claimant of the middleweight title, and Ralph Parcut of the Yale chapter, Phil Beta Kappa, tonight.

He replied to criticism of his recent suggestions as to college athletics made by Graduate Treasurer Fred W. Moore of Harvard and Prof. Clarence W. Mendell, chairman of the Yale athletic board of control and reiterated his declaration that it was time that "undergraduates should again coach and manage and play their own games."

The wrestlers will make 160 pounds at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the contest. One year ago these men met at the Haymarket and each won a fall. The bout was stopped during the third fall because of the midnight closing law.

Promoter Mullen will arrange two other contests. Among some of the grapplers under consideration are Paul Frehn, wrestling coach at the University of Illinois; Hein Engel of Duquesne, Pa.; Ben Reuben, Tom Kowalek, Ted Thau, and Mike Yokel.

Parcut arrived in Chicago late yesterday and will take his first workout in Chicago this afternoon at Perretti's gymnasium. Meyers put in a strenuous day at the Arcade. More than $500 worth of tickets were disposed of yesterday at 129 North Dearborn street and 153 North Clark street, where seats can be secured.

CLONI, PRO STAR, A ROLLER ENTRY

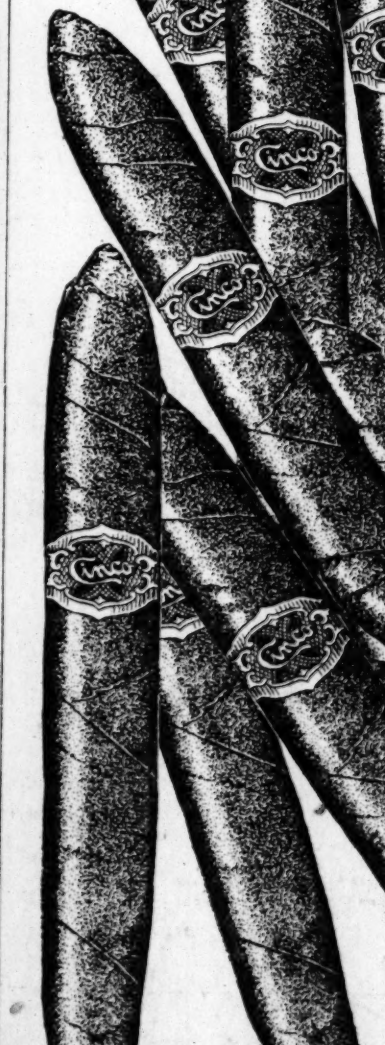

Roland Cloni of Columbus, O., world's professional roller skating champion, has entered the international championship meet which will be run April 3 to 8 at the Riverfront rink. Cloni arrived yesterday and advised Julian T. Fitzgerald and L. M. Seitz, who will manage the races, that he would compete. Rolfe Birkheimer of Columbus, O., is another entrant. Sixteen entries have been received to date.

Edward A. Mahlike and George G. Smith, who are associated with Fitzgerald in the running of the tournament, announced that the prize list for the pro events will total over $1,000.

Full Control by Colleges, Meiklejohn's Sport Plan

New Haven, Conn., March 27.—Colleges and not athletic boards should manage their athletics and handle the revenue, President Alexander Meiklejohn of Amherst college said in an address at the one hundred and forty-second annual banquet of the Yale chapter, Phi Beta Kappa, tonight.

He replied to criticism of his recent suggestions as to college athletics made by Graduate Treasurer Fred W. Moore of Harvard and Prof. Clarence W. Mendell, chairman of the Yale athletic board of control and reiterated his declaration that it was time that "undergraduates should again coach and manage and play their own games."

"I have ventured to suggest," he said, "that undergraduate games should be played by undergraduates, managed by undergraduates, coached by undergraduates."

"To the first of these suggestions no objection has, so far as I know, been made in words. I am glad to say that apparently most of the colleges we play do not care to pay men to play on the college teams."

"To my second suggestion Mr. Moore has replied that it is impractical, that undergraduates could not possibly manage their athletic activities. Mr. Moore seems to me to confuse issues and so to miss the real point."

"I know that Harvard undergraduate ought not to try to manage the Harvard stadium, but the point seems to me irrelevant.

"The one essential change in athletic management which is needed is to cut the connection between games and gate receipts. The college or university should own and manage its athletic field, just as it owns and manages all other equipment."

"What I had proposed was that undergraduates should manage their own games, pay for their own uniforms and equipment, should go to the field to play just as they go to any other place of equipment which the college supplies. If that separation is made undergraduates can manage their own games."

"The suggestion is not impractical. It is essential that it be carried out."

Two Things Confused.

"To my third suggestion Prof. Mendell has objected, saying that since 'in our intellectual work we furnish the best teaching,' therefore in sports we should 'give the very best teaching there is.'"

"Mr. Mendell's argument seems to me to rest upon a confusion between teaching and coaching. There is not a college in the country which does not recognize the distinction. If we are to extend and develop our teaching, it follows that we must also extend and develop our coaching. In the field of studies every teacher would, I think, argue in exactly the opposite direction. The colleges should furnish physical training for all students, should teach them games, should develop in them all the love of play and the skill in doing it. But does it follow that the colleges should coach them when they engage in conflict with another college. No man who knows what sport is wants another man paid to win his game for him. And that is not our present coaching system does."

FARM and GARDEN

IF YOU OWN GARDEN, GROW YOUR OWN TIPS.

OUTSIDE of the extremely small plots in the back yards of congested portions of cities, there are few gardens so small that there is not room for an asparagus bed. Two rows eighteen inches apart along the fence in a garden twenty-five or thirty feet long will provide enough tender tips for the average sized family after the third year.

Asparagus lives for many years and for that reason the bed should be located along the border or in a corner where it will not interfere with the cultivation of the regular annual crops.

While asparagus plants are started from seed, it does not pay the home

MISS CUMMINGS WINS AGAIN AT PINEHURST MEET

Pinehurst, N. C., March 27.—(Special.)—Miss Glenna Collett of the Metropolitan Golf club of Providence and Miss Edith Cummings of the Onwenta club of Chicago, two of the foremost of the younger women players in American, won their matches in the second round of the north and south championship today and are expected to reach the finals.

Miss Cummings defeated Mrs. M. J. Scammell of Oakmont and a member of the Fownes family of Pittsburgh. Mrs. Scammell has played the championship course in 81 this week, and should give Miss Cummings a hard match, although the Onwenta player is a slight favorite. Miss Collett should win her semi-final match from Mrs. C. Uebelacker of Arcola.

Two weeks ago Miss Collett and Miss Cummings met in the final round of the Belleaire championship, and Miss Collett won, but Miss Cummings has as many backers here as the Metacomet golfer.

CHAMPIONSHIP SUMMARY.

Mrs. C. Uebelacker, Arcola, defeated Mrs. William West, Philadelphia, 1 up; Miss Glenna Collett, Providence, defeated Mrs. R. H. Barlow, Philadelphia, 3 and 2; Miss Edith Cummings, Chicago, defeated Miss Sarah Fownes, Oakmont, 4 and 3; Mrs. M. J. Scammell, Oakmont, defeated Mrs. M. A. Wolf, Essex, 6 and 5.

Two entries belong to Dr. Glen Adams of Cincinnati, O. He expects to take back the bacon, but there are several fanciers from Chicago who doubt the ability of his puppies to do any such thing.

Many of the best bulldogs in the world will be seen at the show, some of them having been imported from England especially for the occasion.

THE QUESTION BOX.

ANSWING, Mich.—(To the Editor): Does the robin raise more than one brood of young during the spring and summer? S. A. R.

Answer—Yes, the robin will raise two and sometimes three families from the time it arrives in the north until it leaves for the south again. The first brood of young birds is usually out of the nest, able to fly, and being taken care of by the males by the last of June. And at this time the females are usually looking after a second family.

Chicago—(To the Editor)—As a reader of your column will you please advise me about the following two questions? 1. Do you advise putting oil on a silk casting line? 2. How hot should a fellow reel?

JAMES GORDON.

Answer—1. Oiling is a good thing for a line, although not for a rod. It is a matter that is strictly up to you whether you want to go to the trouble of doing it. Some fellows smear oil on a line from one year's end to another, and consider it necessary. Oiling is more or less of a bother and sometimes you will find an angler who avoids the job by using about twenty feet of waterproof tape on the working end of his cast. 2. You can lay down any hard and fast rule as to the reel, as the speed that you put on a ball will depend somewhat on the nature of that ball. However, well over that on an average the ball casters reel in the line too fast. In the spring when the bass are full of sex they will reel the bait the minute it strikes the water, and at this season you have to show a little speed with your reel. It is better to follow more time. The main point to remember is to start the line the instant it strikes the water. Get it under control when it is not you have to give time follows more time. LOCAL GOLF

THERE is a new applied club in the market which appears to have caught the fancy of a number of professionals. The spin is from eight to ten inches in length and in addition to being fixed has three wrappings of cord placed at intervals. The claim is that the ball is stiffened and that the spring of the shaft comes in the right spot.

Also, Pirie of the Professional Golfers' association believes the only solution to the national open championship will be to extend it to five days. This would make three playing days, in each of which twenty-four players would qualify, leaving a field of seventy-two for the seventy-two hole of championship play.

Professionals who visited the loop yesterday reported that their courses had weathered well and if the weather keeps fine will rapidly into shape.

SHORT COVERING ELEVATES GRAIN PRICES AT CLOSE

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation was on in all grains early with May wheat and all deliveries of corn and oats in new ground on the present downturn, but a heavy oversold condition was disclosed on the break. General short covering and a good class of commission houses buying carried prices up sharply and the close was about the top, with net gains of 1 1/2¢ on wheat, 3/4¢ on corn, 1/2¢ on oats and 1/2¢ on rye. Houses with eastern connections sold May wheat and bought July early, narrowing the difference to 1 1/2¢, against 1 3/4¢ at the close Saturday, but the spread was 1 1/2¢ at the last. At the inside figures May was off 1/2¢ and July 6¢ from the high of the previous week and the reaction was regarded as only natural after such a severe decline.

Crop Damage Reports.

Crop reports from the southwest continue very spotted, with western Kansas now sending complaints, while green bugs are claimed to be doing some damage in Oklahoma. Export demand was fair with Germany taking new crop wheat for July-August shipment. Corn and oats were depressed by the action of wheat early and stop orders selling, but when wheat turned coarse grains followed and the close was about the top. A decrease of 115,000 bu in the visible supply of corn was unexpected, and had some effect on values. Houses with export connections were the best buyers of rye, while selling was of a local character.

Provisions Are Dull.

Provisions were dull and easier, with lard 50¢ lower and short ribs 5¢ higher to 2 1/2¢ lower. Export demand for meats showed improvement. Prices follow:

NEWS OF THE CROPS

Winter wheat improved over the southwest as shown by the Santa Fe road's weekly crop report. Grain that failed to germinate prior to recent rains is not making expected headway and more time is necessary to determine the condition and prospects. Less moisture fell over Kansas and Oklahoma, while parts of Texas had rain. Corn planting in Texas is about finished with an increased acreage. Cotton planting is well advanced and an increased acreage is going into west Texas and in the Pecos valley where little has been raised heretofore. Grain movement shows a small increase, being 1,457 cars last week, against 1,073 cars the previous week and 1,449 cars last year.

Reports to Allan Logan of Kansas City, covering Ford, Cloud, Rush, and Clay counties, Kansas, with an acreage of 800,000, say that the wheat is not coming up as it should and may make only half a crop.

A prominent Enid, Okla., grain man who was in Kansas City yesterday wired J. E. Bennett & Co. that a large territory east of Enid is turning yellow in spots, due to ravages of green bugs.

"Terre Haute to Vincennes wheat generally in very good condition, wind Logan & Bryan's crop report from Vincennes, Ind. Water again standing in lowlands. Rain will delay field work and oats sowing. Will also delay any prospective insect attack."

GOOD YEAR REPORTS TRADE ON UP TREND

BY O. A. MATHER.

Improvement in the automobile accessory industry following the troubles of last year is reflected in the annual report of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company. The report covers the ten months ended Dec. 31, 1921, as the company was reorganized on March 1, last year.

The company's principal operating subsidiaries continue to show satisfactory current earnings and the export business as a whole was again restored to a profitable basis in January of this year. President E. G. Wilmer says: "Neither the company nor its subsidiaries have today any indebtedness to banks. In spite of curtailment in buying that seasonally occurs during the winter months, the volume of business during the present winter has far surpassed that of a year ago."

Production Is Up.

"Notwithstanding a substantial general price reduction in November, operations during the winter months have been conducted profitably. Production, which reached a low point of 15,000 tires a day in November (against a low point of 7,000 a year ago) was increased to 15,000 in March."

Sales for the ten months were $22,192,500, compared with about $20,000,000 for the whole of 1920. Net earnings were $1,610,235, and after deducting interest and fixed charges there was a balance of $1,210,041. This was set up as a surplus. No dividends were paid. Dividends accrued on the preferred stocks of the company and its subsidiaries, which are cumulative, amounted to about $5,738,000 on Jan. 1.

Advance-Retiree Report.

The annual report of the Advance-Retiree company reflected the general expansion of the manufacturing industry, a hard year passed and brighter prospects ahead.

"The year 1921 was an unusual depression in the agricultural implement business," President Finley P. Mount says. "The farmer was first to feel the pinch of the great slump in commodity prices, and sales reflected the curtailed buying power of agriculture. The recovery of our business is as certain as the recovery in agricultural conditions. Since the end of the year there has been a marked increase in the price of agricultural products. This has produced a marked beneficial effect on business in general. Already indications point to a better year in 1922 than in 1921, and if the farmer has good crops in the ensuing year both his and our return to normal prosperity will be fairly in sight."

Operating Loss.

The report for 1921 shows a net operating loss of $458,013, compared with net operating income of $2,116,168 in 1920. After charging off $1,719,379 as inventory and paying $661,379 in preferred dividends there was a deficit of $2,536,595, not including about $187,000 of preferred dividends in arrears on the preferred stock, which is cumulative. In 1920 after payment of full preferred dividends and an inventory charge of $1,642,000, there was a surplus of $252,725, equivalent to 3.84 percent on the $13,750,000 common stock outstanding. The 1921 deficit was deducted from the $1,479,436, compared with $4,500,001 at the end of 1920.
